Modules

FR4001 Advanced Translation

Credits: 40.0 Semester: Whole Year

Antirequisites: FR3007, FR4004

Programme(s): Optional module for Advanced Language Studies, European Languages and Linguistics, and French Language Studies Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: The course focuses primarily on translation from French into English. The formal properties of texts, generic category, language variety, aspects of contrastive linguistics and stylistic editing are examined in the context of translation strategy and problem solving. Reference to language theory is combined with the acquisition and application of analytic and practical skills. Course materials cover a wide range of textual genres, including literary, technical, scientific and advertising.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One-and-a-half hour seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 60%, 3 Hour Examination = 40%

FR4002 Sociolinguistics of French

Credits: 40.0 Semester: Whole Year

Programme(s): Optional module for Advanced Language Studies, European Languages and Linguistics, and French Language Studies Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: In the first half of the course the theory and method of sociolinguistics developed from the work of Labov are investigated, together with the methodology of French linguistics studying the relationship between language and society. In the second half of the course a more detailed survey is made of existing work on varieties of standard French, both spoken and written, in order to identify areas and types of research which offer scientific benefits. The subject is pursued through a range of theoretical and data-based studies, which will require students to form their own view as to the current state of research, and areas in which further research would advance the subject.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One-and-a-half hour seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

FR4003 The French Language Today

Credits: 40.0 Semester: Whole Year

Programme(s): Optional module for Advanced Language Studies, European Languages and Linguistics, and French Language Studies Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: This module offers a general description of the internal structure of contemporary French, leading to a discussion of the principles of second-language acquisition and language-teaching methodology. The work of the first semester will be concerned with the sounds of French (Phonetics and Phonology) and the language's grammatical structure (Morphology and Syntax). The second semester will look at words and word-meaning (Lexical Semantics), leading to an exploration of Discourse and Pragmatics. The course concludes with an attempt to relate the description of French to the teaching of the language to foreigners.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 40%, 2 Hour Examination = 60%

FR4021 Writing the Self 1

Credits: 40.0 Semester: 1

Antirequisite: FR4023

Programme(s): Compulsory module for French Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: This module treats the problems of writing and literary representation involved in exploring the notion of subjectivity or self. It provides an introduction to the evolving concept of the self in Western culture through the study of a series of texts drawn from French literature since 1100. Taught in partial overlap with FR4023 (intended for fourth level students recruited from partner universities within the SOCRATES exchange scheme), it is designed to offer a bi-lingual, bi-cultural environment suitable for students recruited from British and North American universities.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: Three hours lecture/seminar work.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

FR4022 Writing the Self 2

Credits: 40.0 Semester: 2

Antirequisite: FR4023

Programme(s): Compulsory module for French Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: This module is designed to pursue the objectives and skills set out for FR4021. It continues the study of a key concept in Western culture by following the crisis of representation and the questioning of received notions of subject, author and authority in modern French writing. Topics include introspection, self-knowledge, self-creation, gender, myth and cultural identity. Taught in partial overlap with FR4023 (intended for fourth level students recruited from partner universities within the SOCRATES exchange scheme), it is designed to offer a bi-lingual, bi-cultural environment suitable for students recruited from British and North American universities.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: Three hours lecture/seminar work.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

FR4023 Writing the Self (SOCRATES)

Credits: 40.0 Semester: Whole Year

Prerequisites: Licence de Lettres Modernes (France)

Antirequisites: FR4021 & FR4022

Description: This module treats the problems of writing and literary representation involved in exploring the notion of subjectivity or self. It provides an introduction to the evolving concept of the self in Western culture through the study of a series of texts drawn from French literature since 1100, and selected from those offered in FR4021 and FR4022. The module is designed to offer exchange students recruited from Lettres Modernes departments in French universities, who already hold a first degree in French literature, the equivalent of thier 'C2 de maîtrise.' Taught in partial overlap with FR4021 and FR4022 (intended for British and American recruits), it provides a bi-lingual, bi-cultural environment for both sets of students.

GM4037 Mastersingers: Walther von der Vogelweide, Hans Sachs and Richard Wagner

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2
Availability: 2001-02
Programme(s): Optional module for Cultural Identity Studies, German Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.
Description: The module is centred on the libretto of Richard Wagner's opera Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg and the historical prototypes of the opera's two principal male characters, Walther von der Vogelweide and Hans Sachs. It studies lyric texts by these two poets, which reflect on the public functions of poet-singers and their writing, and the depiction of poet-singers in Wagner's Meistersinger and other nineteenth-century sources. Main themes of the module are the connections between ideas of artistic, political and national identity, the problematics of reception as exemplified in nineteenth-century reception of medieval and Renaissance cultural heroes and their presentation by Wagner and in popular and scholarly literary history as exemplars of cultural and ideological "Deutschtum".
Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: Two seminars.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 3 Hour Examination = 50%

GM4050 The Literature of the Weimar Republic

Credits: 40.0 Semester: 2

GM4057 German War Fiction

Credits: 40.0 Semester: 2
Programme(s): Optional module for German Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.
Description: The module will explore the variety of ways in which the First World War was dealt with, in literary terms, by the generation in Germany which survived it. Particular areas of discussion will include the ways the war and the experience of war were appropriated for political ends by writers in the Weimar Republic; and the literary qualities (or lack of them) of German war fiction.
Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: One lecture, one seminar
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 34%, 3 Hour Examination = 66%

GM4060 Nietzsche

Modern Languages - 4000 Level modules

Credits: 40.0 Semester: 1
Programme(s): Optional module for German Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: Nietzsche (1844 - 1900) is perhaps the most radical and challenging thinker Germany has produced in the last 150 years, as well as being a scintillating exponent of the German language. He is famous for his pronouncement 'Got ist tot', 'den Übermensch', 'der Wille zur Macht', and 'die blonde Bestie'. Further topics for discussion will include his virulent attacks on contemporary Germany, and his ambivalent attitude to Richard Wagner. He is also, of course, notorious, not least for the way he was appropriated by the Nazi ideologues. A representative selection of his writings will be considered, as well as the extraordinarily varied impact of his work in our own century.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One lecture, one seminar and some individual tuition.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 34%, 3 Hour Examination = 66%

GM4061 Literature and Ideology in the Third Reich

Credits: 40.0 Semester: 2
Programme(s): Optional module for German Studies, Twentieth-Century German Literature and Society Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: The module will examine representative examples of literary and ideological texts produced by writers sympathetic to the Nazi cause during the rise of the NSDAP and during the Third Reich itself, as well as by opponents of National Socialism who were living either in exile or in 'innere Emigration' from 1933 to 1945. Texts studied will include works by, among others, Hitler, Goebbels, Rosenberg, Johst, Benn, Jünger, Heinrich and Thomas Mann, Becher, and Brecht.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One lecture, one seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 34%, 3 Hour Examination = 66%

GM4101 German Identities after 1945

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2
Programme(s): Optional module for Cultural Identity Studies, German Studies Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: The module will examine the different and changing German responses to the collapse of the Third Reich, national defeat and the revelation of atrocities committed by the Nazis 'in the name of Germany'. Particular aspects of this problem to be studied include the immediate aftermath of the war, the ideologies behind the founding of the two German states in 1949, East and West German identities (1949 - 1989), and identity crises in the 'new' Germany since 1990. The module will focus on representative examples of literary and political texts that reflect the debate surrounding postwar German identity.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One lecture, one seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 34%, 3 Hour Examination = 66%

ML4001 Theory and Practice of Literary Research 1

Modern Languages - 4000 Level modules

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Programme(s): Compulsory module for Comparative Literary Studies, Cultural Identity Studies Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Optional module for French Studies, German Studies, Russian Studies, Spanish and Latin American Studies, Twentieth-Century German Literature and Society Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: This module seeks to provide the kind of research training now regarded as indispensable for all postgraduates. It has both a theoretical and a practical orientation, and seeks to relate one to the other. Its aims are to (i) debate and enrich our common concepts of writing and reading, of evaluating and relating texts, by providing a range of different perspectives on literary theory and the methodology of criticism and literary research; (ii) offer practical advice on conceiving, pursuing, organising and successfully completing a literary research project.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: Lecture/Seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 40%, 3 Hour Examination = 60%

ML4002 Theory and Practice of Literary Research 2

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Programme(s): Compulsory module for Comparative Literary Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Optional module for French Studies, German Studies, Russian Studies, Spanish and Latin American Studies, Twentieth-Century German Literature and Society Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: This module will involve the design and completion by a student of a project essay, conceived as the application of some aspect of theory or methodology arising from ML4001 to a work or body of writing in the student's particular field of study. This part of the course would be pursued under the direction of a member of the department concerned, and would constitute a practical exercise in research as a preparation for the M.Litt. or research dissertation.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: 1 tutorial

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

ML4005 Research Methods for Language and Linguistic Studies

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Programme(s): Optional module for Advanced Language Studies, European Languages and Linguistics, and French Language Studies Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: This module further enables the development by the student of facilities in research skills. It develops expertise in the selective gathering of data, the use of linguistic terminology, and the preparation of material for presentation and publication. The core aim will be the involvement of the student in the design and completion of a project, conceived as the application of some issue, theoretical or methodological or a combination of both, to a topic within the student's particular field of study. It is pursued under the direction of a member of the department concerned and constitutes a practical exercise in research both in itself and as a preparation for the MLitt or research dissertation/thesis.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: seminars.

Assessment: 5000 word project write-up = 100%

ML4006 Problems of Cultural Identity (1)

Modern Languages - 4000 Level modules

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1
Programme(s): Compulsory module for Cultural Identity Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: The module, together with ML4001 and ML4007, provides part of the compulsory 'core' taken by all students enrolled for the M.Litt. in Cultural Identity Studies. Accessible to students with diverse linguistic competences, it aims to introduce major aspects and dimensions of the question of cultural identity. Through the study of a broad-range of particular cultural identities, it seeks to enhance understanding of the concepts and mechanisms involved in the formation of collective identity as such (the 'poetics' of cultural identity). Particular topics treated include: concepts of culture and identity; identity and language; collective memory; icons of identity; historiography and myth; complex identities and cultural hybridity.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: One lecture, one seminar.
Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

ML4007 Problems of Cultural Identity (2)

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2
Programme(s): Compulsory module for Cultural Identity Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: The module, together with ML4001 and ML4006, provides part of the compulsory 'core' taken by all students enrolled for the M.Litt. in Cultural Identity Studies. The module aims to explore further major aspects, dimensions of cultural identity. Particular topics treated include: ideology, religion and identity; minority and majority, region and nation; political institutions and national/cultural identity; post-colonial identities; Self and Other (cultural encounter, interperceptions), the European bond.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: One lecture, one seminar.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

ML4008 Language and Nation in Europe

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2
Programme(s): Optional module for Cultural Identity Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: This module examines the extent to which cultural identity is embodied in language, of the relationship between language and the exercise of political power. Specific topics include: multilingualism, the nature of standard languages, the place of regional languages, attitudes to language and the effect of language planning.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: One lecture, 1 one-and-a-half hour seminar.
Assessment: Continous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

ML4012 Mediaeval Translation Studies I

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1
Co-requisite: ML4012
Programme(s): Optional module for European Language & Linguistics, French Language Studies, German Studies, Russian Studies and Spanish and American Studies Postgraduate Taught Programmes.

Description: This module offers students the opportunity to study translations into one or more vernaculars in Western and Eastern Europe, where the individual translations studied would be chosen in accordance with the research interests of those teaching the course. The module will comprise: (i) the in-depth study of two major mediaeval translations in one or two vernaculars depending on the requirements of the student; (ii) a review of any aids to translation relevant to the texts being studied; (iii) a detailed consideration of the theoretical pronouncements on translation.

Class Hour: To be arranged.
Teaching: One 2 hour seminar.
Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

ML4013 Mediaeval Translation Studies II

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Modern Languages - 4000 Level modules

ML4015 General Linguistics: Basic Concepts

Credits: 40.0 Semester: 1

Programme(s) Optional module for European Language & Linguistics Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: The module starts by looking briefly at the division of language into levels, eg phonetics, phonology, morphology, lexis, syntax, text. We then examine the work of Saussure, in particular langue and parole, the sign, synchronic versus diachronic, language as a system. Functional approaches are discussed, as in Jakobson, Bühler and Halliday. Word formation is covered, eg derivation using prefixes and suffixes, compounds, direction of derivation, neologisms, morphological transparency versus opacity. We also look at three grammatical categories, viz. The passive, tense, and aspect. Examples are taken from English, German, Russian, French and other languages.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One lecture, one seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

ML4016 General Linguistics: Methodology

Credits: 40.0 Semester: Whole Year

Programme(s) Optional module for European Language & Linguistics Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: The module looks at methods of research in linguistics. We contrast the 'descriptive' (i.e. analytical-theoretical), data-oriented approach with the generative, model-building approach, also taking in the distinction made in physics between experimental and theoretical physics. Dialectics is discussed. We examine in particular the 'method of lexical exceptions', which uses vocabulary to investigate grammar. The method is exemplified by the passive and non-passivizable transitive verbs, and by tense and irregular verbs. We also examine methods of research in text linguistics, as opposed to sentence grammar. The languages used for illustration are English, German, Russian, French and other languages.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One lecture, one seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

ML4017 General Linguistics: Text Grammar and Language and Politics

Credits: 40.0 Semester: 2

Modern Languages - 4000 Level modules

Programme(s) Optional module for European Language & Linguistics Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: The module starts by examining the notion of variety of language: styles and registers, Languages for Special Purposes, spoken versus written language. We look at the ways in which texts are structured or organised e.g. according to theme and theme, or according to communicative function (speech acts). In the field of language and politics we look at the manipulative and ideological use of language in the wider sense, but also focusing on two specific areas of interest, viz. NukeSpeak and sexist language. The languages used for illustration are English, German, Russian, French and other languages.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One lecture, one seminar.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

SP4031 'The Socialist Decade', Spain 1982 - 1996

Credits: 40.0 Semester: Whole Year

Programme(s): Optional module for Spanish and Latin American Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: In Semester 1 students will analyse the political developments of the 'Socialist Decade', focusing on existing interpretations of González's success or failure. This will be followed in Semester 2 by an examination of the portrayal of Spain during the 'Socialist Decade', including the study of various art forms (novels, films, songs, and television). The two pathways will be linked by a critical investigation of the PSOE's claims of having modernised Spain, focusing on historical data and the representation of those claims in the various art forms of the period.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One lecture/seminar per week, over two semesters, with tutorials as appropriate.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 3 Hour Examination = 50%

SP4032 Independent Mexico, 1821 - 1855

Credits: 40.0 Semester: Whole Year

Programme(s): Optional module for Spanish and Latin American Studies Postgraduate Taught Programme.

Description: This module will concentrate on the early national period in Mexico, also known as the 'age of chaos', the 'age of Santa Anna', and most significantly 'the forgotten years'. The module will provide a presentation of the political systems of the period, focusing on the political factions and ideologies which emerged amongst Liberals and Conservatives, and the classical notions/myths of caudillismo, predatory praetorianism, and ecclesiastical politics, as they have been addressed in the historiography. This will be followed by an examination of General Antonio López de Santa Anna (President on eleven separate occasions). The two pathways will be linked by a critical investigation of the myths which continue to obscure our understanding of this period in the context of available historical data, focusing on primary sources and recent developments in the historiography.

Class Hour: To be arranged.

Teaching: One lecture/seminar per week, over two semesters, with tutorials as appropriate.
