

Part-time Evening Degree Programme

Admission to the Part-time Evening Degree programme will normally be restricted to suitably qualified adults over the age of 21. The normal requirements for entry to undergraduate degree programmes will be relaxed for this programme. Applicants must, however, demonstrate that they are capable of profiting from, and succeeding in, a demanding academic environment.

Students who enrol for the maximum possible number of modules can accumulate 40 credits per semester or 80 credits per academic year. The total number of credits required for the award of the General M.A. Degree is 360, so it is possible to complete the requirements for the Degree in a minimum of four and a half years.

This minimum period may be reduced if:

- i. credit is awarded for qualifications achieved prior to enrolment on the Programme.
- ii. students take approved courses in addition to the evening modules offered by the University while enrolled on the Part-time Evening Degree Programme. These courses could be other modules or short courses offered by the University of St Andrews or by the University of Dundee or Abertay University, with whom a formal agreement of reciprocity has been established.
- iii. students decide to transfer from part-time to full-time status. Requests for such a transfer must be made to the Pro Dean (Undergraduate), Faculty of Arts, and should be made in good time in advance of the session for which full-time status is sought.

In order to be permitted to continue with their studies, part-time students must have gained:

- i. 80 credits after 3 years of study as a matriculated student.
- ii. 160 credits after 5 years of study as a matriculated student.
- iii. the requirements for the General Degree after 9 years of study as a matriculated student.

Modules

STUDY SKILLS

All entrants will be expected to attend an initial study skills course which will comprise two evenings per week for four weeks. The purpose of the course is to introduce people to the skills needed for success in studying at undergraduate level, and will include study techniques, note taking, library use, essay and report writing, examination techniques, effective presentations, and a basic introduction to the use of computers.

Core Modules:

EN1901 Reading English Literature

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Availability: annually from 2000-01

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Anti-requisite: EN1001

Description: This module is organised around three focal points: an introduction to, successively, the reading of verse drama, poetry and prose fiction; the study of selected poems or groups of poems from the Renaissance to the early twentieth century; and the study of two contemporary texts. Students taking the module will be expected to develop the skills of close reading, of both prose and verse; an awareness of literary and linguistic change; an understanding of the relationships possible among author, text and reader; and a critical vocabulary for discussing these issues.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures & seminars

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

Part-time Evening Degree modules

EN2901 Comedy in English Literature

Credits:	20.0	Semester:	2
Availability:	annually from 2000-01
Prerequisite:	EN1901
Anti-requisite:	EN2002

Description: This module builds on the work of EN1901 to give extended and deeper understanding of major literary texts, in drama, verse and prose, from the sixteenth century to the mid-twentieth century. The focus of the module is on comedy and comic forms of writing. This will include an introduction to theories of comedy and study of techniques of humorous writing. Since comedy is often used to comment on and criticise society, the relationship between writers and texts and the historical and social conditions of their times will also be a theme of the module, with particular reference to gender issues. The authors to be studied include Shakespeare, Jonson, Sheridan, Shaw, Beckett, Pope, Byron, Austen, Woolf and Spark.

Teaching:	One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and tutorials
Assessment:	Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment:	Examination = 100%

IS1901 Information Technology I

Credits:	20.0	Semester:	1
Availability:	annually from 2000-01
Prerequisite:	Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisites:	IS1001, IS1003, IS2001, IS3001

Description: This module is a practically oriented introduction to information technology, covering computer and network basics, word processing, spreadsheets, graphics, the Internet, information retrieval, elementary web site authoring and both the legal and the ethical aspects of computing.

Availability:	annually from 2001-02
Prerequisite:	Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme
Anti-requisite:	SC1001

Description: The module covers the period from the end of the Roman presence in Britain until the Renaissance. The dominant themes will be the coming of political unity, economic and social development, the role of the church in the Middle Ages, and the relationship of Scotland and the wider world. Through the study of this period the student will gain an introduction to the skills of historical analysis.

Teaching:	One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and seminars
Assessment:	Continuous Assessment = 100%
Re-Assessment:	Examination = 100%

BL1901 Human Biology

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Availability: annually from 2001-02

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Anti-requisite: BL1004

Description: Lectures and seminars provide an introduction to the varied fields of study that relate to human biology. Initially lectures cover the basic structure (anatomy) and function (physiology) of the human body. Later topics include the ways in which humans evolved, how we think, how we reproduce and why and how we eventually die. Lectures also consider the ways in which we survive on this planet, and how our activities affect its functioning; and other organisms that interact with us and use us for their own survival, including consideration of human pathogens and disease.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and/or seminars

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 67%, Class Tests = 33%

Re-Assessment: Examination (written or oral)= 100%

AS1901 The Physical Universe

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Availability: annually from 2001-02

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Anti-requisites: AS1001 or AS1002 or PH1001 or PH1002 or PH1003

Description: This module presents a descriptive, non-mathematical account of the physical universe. It is divided into two components: concepts in astronomy, dealing with our understandings of the properties and ages of planets, stars, galaxies, and their distributions in space, cosmology and the origin of the Universe; and concepts in physics, dealing with our understandings of the nature of light and matter, the structure of atoms, fundamental particles and their links to cosmology.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and/or seminars

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 75%, Class Tests = 25%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

PS1901 Psychology & Society 1

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Availability: annually from 2002-03

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Anti-requisites: PS1001 and PS1002

Description: This module is designed to introduce the principles of the main areas of Psychology (social, developmental and evolutionary, cognition, perception, individual differences, physiological, abnormal and health). A major component of the course will involve the underlying psychological theory and mechanisms but these will be illustrated through issues and applications in current society. Additionally, methods of scientific assessment of theory and measurement of psychological effects will be stressed through practical sessions. It will be assumed that entrants have no previous knowledge of Psychology.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and practicals

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 75%, Examination = 25%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

PS2901 Psychology & Society 2

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Availability: annually from 2002-03

Prerequisite: PS1901

Anti-requisites: PS2001 and PS2002

Description: This module uses PS1901 as a foundation for a more advanced treatment of the main areas of Psychology (social, developmental and evolutionary, cognition, perception, individual differences, physiological and abnormal). The aim is not to provide a preparation for Honours but to develop a detailed appreciation of psychological theory and practice and its implications for society. The course will therefore involve the underlying psychological theory and mechanisms presented in the light of applications to current society. Additionally, methods of scientific assessment of theory and measurement of psychological effects will be stressed through practical sessions.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and practicals

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 75%, Examination = 25%

DI1901 God & Suffering

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Availability: annually from 2003-04

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Description: This module will introduce students to the variety of disciplines and methodologies encompassed by Divinity through focusing on the subject of God and suffering. Examples of suffering in both testaments will be part of an investigation of biblical treatment of the theme. Historical investigation, theological and philosophical analyses, and issues of suffering from the viewpoint of Christian ethics will be examined. Finally, the pastoral care of those who suffer will be discussed.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures, tutorials and project work

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 75%, Examination = 25%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

DI2901 Christianity and the Modern World

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1 -

Availability: annually from 2004-05

Prerequisite: DI1901

Description: This module explores the major challenges and opportunities presented to Christianity by the modern world. In doing so it introduces students to the analytical and conceptual tools of ecclesiastical history, systematic and practical theology and Biblical studies. The module examines the intellectual developments behind 'secularisation', the interaction of Christianity with contemporary politics and culture in the Western and non-Western worlds, and the theological ramifications of current ethical debates and trends in church life. It concludes with a reassessment of the significance of the Christian intellectual traditions and resources.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures, tutorials and project work

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 75%, Examination = 25%

EC1901 Business Economics 1

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Availability: annually from 2003-04

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Anti-requisites: EC1001, EC1002

Description: In advanced capitalist economies, businesses vary in organisational structure from the small entrepreneurial firm through to the multinational corporation. They operate in widely different environments and may pursue different objectives. This course examines the emergence and the growth of the firm and discusses the way in which the firm's environment affects the behaviour and performance of the firm. Aspects of the firm's decision-making studied in this course are in relation to its a) internal environment (the financial and structural forms) and b) its external environment (global competition) and the legal framework within which the firm operates. The implications of various types of government intervention at the microeconomic level for the management of business are also considered.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures, tutorials and workshops

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 70%, 2 Hour Examination = 30%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

EC2901 Business Economics 2

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Availability: annually from 2003-04

Prerequisite: EC1901

Anti-requisites: EC2005, EC2006, EC2008, EC2009

Description: This module deals with the business decisions by looking at the larger macroeconomic and financial environment and how it affects the way in which some managers behave and make decisions in practice. The macroeconomic environment for business includes not only the economic concepts of national, international and financial economies, but also includes the political environment in which multinationals operate and manage business risks.
