

Part-time Evening Degree Programme

Admission to the Part-time Evening Degree programme will normally be restricted to suitably qualified adults over the age of 21. The normal requirements for entry to undergraduate degree programmes will be relaxed for this programme. Applicants must, however, demonstrate that they are capable of profiting from, and succeeding in, a demanding academic environment.

Students who enrol for the maximum possible number of modules can accumulate 40 credits per semester or 80 credits per academic year. The total number of credits required for the award of the General M.A. Degree is 360, so it is possible to complete the requirements for the Degree in a minimum of four and a half years.

This minimum period may be reduced if:

- i. credit is awarded for qualifications achieved prior to enrolment on the Programme.
- ii. students decide to transfer from part-time to full-time status. Requests for such a transfer must be made to the Adviser of Studies, Faculty of Arts, and should be made in good time in advance of the session for which full-time status is sought.

In order to be permitted to continue with their studies, part-time students must have gained:

- i. 80 credits after 6 semesters of study as a matriculated student.
- ii. 160 credits after 10 semesters of study as a matriculated student.
- iii. the requirements for the General Degree after 18 semesters of study as a matriculated student.

STUDY SKILLS

All entrants will be expected to attend an initial study skills course which will comprise two evenings per week for four weeks. The purpose of the course is to introduce people to the skills needed for success in studying at undergraduate level, and will include study techniques, note taking, library use, essay and report writing, presentations, and a basic introduction to the use of computers.

Modules

AH1901 Western Art from Renaissance to Baroque

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Availability: 2004-05

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Anti-requisites: AH1001, AH1003

Description: The module will provide a survey of western European art from the late Middle Ages to the end of the eighteenth century. Each lecture will focus on a particular work of art or monument, chosen to illustrate not only the achievement of great individual artists (including Michelangelo, Caravaggio, Rembrandt), but also different media (painting, sculpture, architecture, print-making). Attention will also be paid to different art-historical approaches to the art of the Renaissance and Baroque periods.

EC1901 Business Economics 1

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Anti-requisites: EC1001, EC1002

Description: In advanced capitalist economies, businesses vary in organisational structure from the small entrepreneurial firm through to the multinational corporation. They operate in widely different environments and may pursue different objectives. This course examines the emergence and the growth of the firm and discusses the way in which the firm's environment affects the behaviour and performance of the firm. Aspects of the firm's decision-making studied in this course are in relation to its a) internal environment (the financial and structural forms) and b) its external environment (global competition) and the legal framework within which the firm operates. The implications of various types of government intervention at the microeconomic level for the management of business are also considered.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures, tutorials and workshops

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 70%, Class Test = 30%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

EC2901 Business Economics 2

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Prerequisite: EC1901

Anti-requisites: EC2005, EC2006, EC2008, EC2009

Description: This module deals with the business decisions by looking at the larger macroeconomic and financial environment and how it affects the way in which some managers behave and make decisions in practice. The macroeconomic environment for business includes not only the economic concepts of national, international and financial economies, but also includes the political environment in which multinationals operate and manage business risks.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures, tutorials and workshops

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 70%, Class Test = 30%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

Part-time Evening Degree Programme

EN1901 Reading English Literature

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Prerequisite: Entry to the Part-time Evening Degree programme

Anti-requisite: EN1001

Description: This module is organised around three focal points: an introduction to, successively, the reading of verse drama, poetry and prose fiction; the study of selected poems or groups of poems from the Renaissance to the early twentieth century; and the study of two contemporary texts. Students taking the module will be expected to develop the skills of close reading, of both prose and verse; an awareness of literary and linguistic change; an understanding of the relationships possible among author, text and reader; and a critical vocabulary for discussing these issues.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures & seminars

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

EN2901 Comedy in English Literature

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Prerequisite: EN1901

Anti-requisite: EN2002

Description: This module builds on the work of EN1901 to give extended and deeper understanding of major literary texts, in drama, verse and prose, from the sixteenth century to the mid-twentieth century. The focus of the module is on comedy and comic forms of writing. This will include an introduction to theories of comedy and study of techniques of humorous writing. Since comedy is often used to comment on and criticise society, the relationship between writers and texts and the historical and social conditions of their times will also be a theme of the module, with particular reference to gender issues. The authors to be studied include Shakespeare, Jonson, Sheridan, Shaw, Beckett, Pope, Byron, Austen, Woolf and Spark.

Teaching: One 2 3/4 hour session a week: lectures and tutorials

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

Re-Assessment: Examination = 100%

EN3902 Approaches to Fiction

Credits: 30.0 Semester: Whole year

Availability: 2003-04

Prerequisites: EN1901, EN2901

Antirequisites: Any full-time module in English

Description: This module covers aspects of the development of English prose fiction in the last three hundred years. Selected novels will be studied in order to show the variety of narrative styles, the predominant themes and the contribution of major authors to the tradition of English fiction. The module will build on the study of prose fiction in the lower level Part-Time Degree modules EN1901 and EN2901 to provide more advanced and concentrated attention to the major form of modern literature in English.

Class Hour: 6.30 pm

Teaching: The module will be taught in a series of fortnightly seminars, usually consisting of an introductory lecture or formal presentation by a teacher from the School of English followed by group discussion, in which students will be expected to participate. There will be eight meetings in each semester. The meetings will begin at 6.30 pm and last until 9.15 pm

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

Reassessment: 2 hour Examination = 100%

EN3903 The English Poetic Tradition

Credits: 30.0 Semester: Whole year

Availability: 2004-05

Prerequisites: EN1901, EN2901

Antirequisites: Any full-time module in English

Description: This module covers aspects of the English poetic tradition from the late sixteenth to the twentieth century. The emphasis will be on the study of the poems and groups of poems, linked by genre, theme or period, rather than the study of single authors, and will build on the study of poetry in the lower level Part-Time Degree modules EN1901 and EN2901.

Class Hour: 6.30 pm

Teaching: The module will be taught in a series of fortnightly seminars, usually consisting of an introductory lecture or formal presentation by a member of the School followed by group discussion, in which students will be expected to participate. There will be typically eight meetings in each semester, each lasting from 6.30 pm to 9.15pm.

PS1901 Psychology in Everyday Life 1

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Prerequisite: Entry to Part-time Evening Degree Programme

Anti-requisites: PS1001 and PS1002

Description: This module will form the introductory level addressing many basic concepts in Psychology, including fundamental issues in human nature and individual differences. Students will be introduced to the principles of evolutionary psychology and the contribution this makes to our understanding of human behaviour. Culture, language and social behaviour will all be considered from both evolutionary and developmental perspectives. The relationship between internal and external experience will be illustrated through consideration of sensation and perception. Issues of current interest in society will be used to illustrate theories and mechanisms underlying a range of behaviours. It will be assumed that entrants have no previous knowledge of psychology.

Teaching: one 3 hour session per week: lectures and practicals

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 100%

Re-Assessment: Written Assessment = 100%

PS2901 Psychology in Everyday Life 2

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Prerequisite: PS1901

Anti-requisites: PS2001 and PS2002

Description: This module will build on the foundations laid in PS1901 to provide further consideration of a range of psychological topics. Techniques for studying the brain will be combined with examination of the interaction between internal and external factors in behaviour. Students will gain an understanding of the contribution of neuropsychological and experimental evidence to furthering understanding of behaviour. Examination of notions of normality and abnormality will illustrate the application of a number of psychological theories to complex behaviours. Methods of scientific assessment and measurement of psychological effects will be stressed through practical sessions. As in PS1901, consideration of the application of psychological knowledge to current issues in society will be a key feature.

SC3901 Castles and Lordship, 1100 - 1550

Credits: 30.0 Semester: 1

Prerequisites: SC1901 and MO2901

Description: The role of the castle, from the great royal fortresses to the simple baronial tower houses, was central to the exercise of magnate power in medieval Scotland. Perceived as defensive strongholds in times of strife, national and domestic, castles were also, perhaps more crucially, the physical manifestation of status, power and prestige for the families who owned them. Some attention will be given to the architecture and uses of the castle, including choice of situation, chief or lesser residences, garrison centres, etc., although this course will be concerned, primarily, with the significance of the various strongholds in the hands of influential families and the extent to which their local or national standing was enhanced by the acquisition or construction of such castles.

Teaching: one 2 3/4 hour seminar per week

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 60%, 2 Hour Examination = 40%
