Modules

English (EN) Modules

EN1001 Voice and Vision

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Description: The aim of this module is to introduce students to a range of poems by British authors over the past 400 years, ranging from John Donne and John Milton to T S Eliot and Seamus Heaney, and to major works of fiction. The emphasis throughout will be twofold: on the different visions of reality offered by each of these authors, and on the various literary techniques and strategies they have used to communicate and sometimes to question them.

Class Hour: 11.00 am

Teaching: Three to four lectures and one tutorial.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

EN1002 Tragic Forms

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Description: This module aims to develop an understanding of different forms of tragedy in English and related literature. Examples of tragedy and the tragic in dramatic and non-dramatic works will be used in conjunction with discussion of theories of tragedy to explore both the form itself and its relationship to the theoretical discussion of the form.

Class Hour: 11.00 am

Teaching: Three lectures and one tutorial.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

English

EN2002 Comedy and Society

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 2

Prerequisite: EN2003

Description: This module will consider literary comic conventions as well as exploring the social conventions governing the presentation of ideas and characters, particularly of women. It will confront students with the problem of appraising literature written according to unfamiliar, and even repugnant, aesthetic and social conventions. Students will be expected to learn how to use biographical and historical information in literary study.

Class Hour: 4.00 pm

Teaching: Three lectures and one tutorial.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%

EN2003 Mediaeval and Renaissance Texts

Credits: 20.0 Semester: 1

Prerequisites: EN1001 or EN1002

Description: In this module students will learn to read early forms of English language and literature, using specially edited texts from both Old and Middle English. In the other half of the course students will encounter and gain a critical understanding of Renaissance verse, via the study of Shakespeare's Sonnets and Milton's Paradise Lost.

Class Hour: 4.00 pm

Teaching: Three lectures and one tutorial.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 50%, 2 Hour Examination = 50%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%
