SP1002 Spanish Language and Texts (2)

Credits: 20 Semester: 2
Prerequisite: SP1001

Description: This module advances the four skills developed in SP1001. A language course book devised by the Department introduces a higher level of linguistic difficulty through a series of exercises, participative classwork, grammar instruction and CALL work. The literary texts represent twenty-first-century and earlier Spanish, and Spanish American writing, chosen for linguistic enrichment and cultural significance. The reading list is available on line as from the preceding month of April. The module aims at a level of attainment sufficient to enable the student to enter confidently the 2000 level modules.

Class Hour: 12.00 noon

Teaching: One lecture, one seminar and two language classes.

SP1030 Introduction to Modern Latin America

Credits: 10 Semester: 2

Description: This module offers an introduction to modern Latin American history. Starting with the Wars of Independence (1804-1825), it traces the political history of Spanish America, Brazil and Haiti up to the present. Adopting a thematic approach, within a continental-based narrative, this module focuses on the early national period, the neocolonial period, the age of extremes and the age of neoliberalism. Recent trends towards democratisation within a context of globalisation will also be addressed. Whilst the module will stress the common themes between countries as far apart as Mexico and Argentina, it will nonetheless highlight specific national contexts. Key events such as the Mexican-American war, the Mexican Revolution, the Chaco War, the Cuban Revolution and Pinochet's coup of 1973 will all be studied.

Class Hour: 1.00 pm Monday and Friday

Teaching: Two lectures per week.

Assessment: Continuous Assessment = 40%, 2 Hour Examination = 60%

Re-Assessment: 3 Hour Examination = 100%
