EN4341 Renaissance Sexualities: Rhetoric & the Body 1580-1660

Credits: 30 Semester: 1

Availability: Not available 2011-12

Description: The Reformation and Renaissance in English saw shifts in thinking about the place of sexuality and gender in society. Married chastity was spiritually elevated over monastic celibacy, and a classical tradition of temperate control of appetites competed with a Christian tradition of condemning all non-procreative sex. At the same time, this 'Renaissance of chastity' constrained women as imaginative writers. This module will examine the representation of sexuality and gender in poems, prose and drama by men and women in the period 1580 - 1660, focusing on such issues as the transvestite stage, the rhetorical concept of 'manly' style, interpretations of Genesis, the ideology of friendship and transformations in the traditions of love poetry. EN4343 Literature & Law in Early Modern England

Credits: 30 Semester: 2

Availability: Not available 2011-12

Description: Approaching literature by way of the law can transform our thinking about how stories are told, what constitutes 'proof' or 'probability', and how, imaginatively speaking, we gain access to, or reconstruct, the intentions of others (and even our own). In early modern England, the Latin rhetorical treatises used to teach students how to write compelling narratives and invent poetic arguments had originally been designed as treatises for advocates, so there was a very direct connection between legal and fictional techniques for telling stories and imagining motives and 'facts' (as disputed actions were called in English law). This module will explore works of drama and poetry that have strong affinities with legal forms of argument, and will encourage critical thinking about the relations between literary and legal ways of thinking in all periods. (Group B)

Class Hour: 11.00 am Thursday and 11.00 am Friday.

EN4362 Mind, Body & Soul: Literature in the Enlightenment

Credits: 30 Semester: 1

Description: The Enlightenment is a contested historical category, with arguments about literature and philosophy contributing to the definition of what enlightens a human subject. As a result of reading major texts of poetry, fiction and non-fiction from the Eighteenth Century, students on this module will be encouraged to explore the ways in which literature constructs relationships between the rational, emotional, spiritual and physical aspects of human life. They will also be invited to ask how the physical, emotional and spiritual impinge upon rational accounts of enlightenment, and will study the way in which literary texts such as Rochester's poems, Pope's Essay on Man, and Sterne's Tristram Shandy complicate accounts of the age of reason given from the perspective of the history of ideas. (Group C)

Class Hour: 2.00 pm Tuesday and 2.00 pm Thursday.

EN4364 The Art of Victorian Poetry

Credits: 30 Semester: 1

Description: This module explores the richness and diversity of poetry written and/or published in the period 1837-1901. Covering a range of major works, it examines the new demands made of poetry in this era, and the different ways in which poets respond to the challenge of skepticism and disagreement about poetry's place in an industrialized society. The structure of the module is both chronological and thematic, addressing issues such as gender, class, religion, and nation in relation to Victorian poetry. Throughout, the module uses the background of visual art - including poetry book illustration, Victorian paintings based on subjects from Victorian poetry, and artworks commemorated in Victorian poems - to highlight issues regarding poetry's status, aims, and appearance in the period. Looking at the art of poetry in relation to visual art, it asks how Victorian poetry aligns itself with broader aesthetic debates about form, function, and representation. (Group C)
