Introduction to the 1000 & 2000 Level Module Catalogue

The main body of the Catalogue is presented by in Sections relating to the eighteen Schools in the University. In addition, there are sections for Interdisciplinary Modules (section 23), English Language Teaching Modules (section 24), Part-time Evening Degree Programme (section 25) and Distance Learning Modules (section 26).

Explanation of Fields in Module Entries

Module number and Title. Self explanatory - module numbers are unique. The third character indicates the module level.

Academic Year. The academic session (whether current or planned) in which the module will be offered.

SCOTCAT Credits. Credits are the number of points a specific module contributes towards a recognised degree programme and are grouped according to the level of academic content in the module. A student's studies towards a degree will be structured in terms of modules, each of which is assigned a credit value; so, for example, 1000-level modules in the School of Art History are worth 20 credits. One credit represents the outcome achievable by the average student through 10 notional hours of learner effort. In practice, one full-time undergraduate year is considered to be 120 credits worth of learning (or 1,200 notional hours of learning).

SCQF Level. The Scottish Credit and Qualifications Framework (SCQF) SCQF Levels provide an indication of the complexity of qualifications and learning programmes and are based on a single set of Level Descriptors that are the common reference points and definitions which provide a way of recognising learning that is outcome-based and quality-assured. 1000 level = SCQF 7, 2000 level = SCQF 8, 3000 level = SCQF 9, 4000 level = SCQF 10, 5000 level = SCQF 11.

Semester. The Semester or Semesters in which the module is taught, where 'either' means that the module is taught in both one or the other semesters, 'both' means being offered twice, and 'whole year' means that it is taught across the two semesters. The St Andrews teaching year has two semesters (September - December, and January - May).

Availability Restrictions. If a module is available but with constraints, these particular restrictions will be clarified in this field.

Planned Timetable. Most 1000- and 2000-level modules are taught at a set hour, for one hour, although additional tutorial times and practical times may need to be arranged. If days of the week are not specified, the class meets every day from Monday to Friday, with the usual exception of Wednesday afternoons.

Description. A brief statement of the content of a module.

Pre-requisite(s). Modules or qualifications which must be passed prior to this module. Second semester modules and 2000-level or above may have pre-requisites reflecting the assumption that they build upon previous knowledge gained. So, for example, the pre-requisite for entry to 2000-level modules in French is a pass in either or both of the 1000-level modules. In the case of certain modules, largely 1000 level, pre-requisites may be framed in terms of specified passes at Higher or A-level. The Head of the relevant School has the authority to waive a pre-requisite. Where the pre-requisite is not simply a pass in another module but includes a grade (eg, '11 or better') the number refers to the 20-point reporting scale.

Co-requisite(s). A module which must be taken in the same semester or academic session as the one listed.

Anti-requisite(s). Students may not take a module if they have already passed or are currently taking any module or other qualification specified as an anti-requisite to it.

Required for. Modules which require this module to be passed, as a pre-requisite to entry.

Programme module type. This indicates how the module fits into various programmes of study and whether it is compulsory or optional.

Learning and Teaching Methods and delivery. This gives Weekly Contact and the formal breakdown of Scheduled Learning/Guided Independent Study as defined by the Quality Assurance Agency (QAA).

Weekly Contact. This will be an indication of the weekly teaching provision for each student. The normal teaching period will be of one hour unless indicated otherwise. Where the pattern of teaching varies from week to week, the average weekly contact is given. A tutorial is a discussion class of typically ten or fewer students. A seminar is typically a larger group, and may also involve student presentations and contributions as well as discussion.

Introduction - 1000 & 2000 Level 2013/14 - August 2013

Scheduled Learning - time spent with an academic member of staff.

Guided Independent Study - time which a student is expected to undertake alone but often under direction.

Assessment pattern. A brief description of the distribution between coursework and formal examination. A percentage breakdown of which elements of assessment qualify in each Quality Assurance Agency (QAA) defined category are also given. These may match the narrative description ("As used by St Andrews"), or they may differ slightly because some elements of Coursework (Class Tests for example) can be considered Written Examinations in this context.

Module Co-ordinator. The academic member of staff responsible for this module, or the contact point for further information.

Lecturer(s)/Tutor(s). One or more academic members of staff who are planned to deliver the content of the module.

AH1001 The Art of the Renaissance in Italy and Northern Europe

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	2.00 pm

This 20 credit module provides a survey of painting, sculpture and architecture in Italy and northern Europe from c. 1280 to c.1580. It traces a chronological development through the work of major personalities from Giotto at the beginning of the fourteenth century, to Durer, Michelangelo and Titian in the sixteenth century.

Attention will also be paid to the issues relating to the wider artistic situation of the Late Gothic and Renaissance periods, including those of patronage, iconography, technique and types of commission.

AH1003 European Art and Architecture in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	2.00 pm

This module provides an introduction to European art and architecture of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. It begins with a study of Baroque art and architecture in Italy, concentrating upon Gianlorenzo Bernini, Caravaggio and the Carracci. From Italy the focus shifts to Spain to introduce Diego Velazquez and his contemporaries. Next there is a series of lectures devoted to art and architecture in France. A further series of lectures treats seventeenth-century painting in Flanders and Holland. These emphasise Peter Paul Rubens, Anthony van Dyck, Rembrandt van Rijn and Jan Vermeer. Subsequent lectures introduce eighteenth-century painting in Italy and France. Much of the later part of the module focuses on art and architecture in Britain.

AH2001 History and Theory of European Art, Architecture and Design from the French Revolution to Vienna 1900

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	2.00 pm

The module provides students with a systematic understanding of the most significant art historical developments in nineteenth-century Europe. It aims to facilitate analytic and interpretative skill using available documentation, and to educate students in the study of visual objects and material history. The module provides a close study of the most significant individual artists, and proceeds to look generally at the emergence of avant-garde movements. There is a theoretical component which provides the broader context for these developments.

AH2002 Art, Culture and Politics, from 1900 to Now

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	2.00 pm

This module offers a survey of some of the most compelling episodes in twentieth-century art, including Cubism, Abstract Expressionism, and Postmodernism. International in focus, lectures will address how artists, architects, photographers and designers have responded to the increasingly industrialised and face-paced nature of modern experience. Students will also explore how the century's major political and social upheavals led to a constant re-evaluation of what might be expected of art. Each week will be devoted to a specific theme, such as 'myths of modernism', 'the metropolis', 'Post-war crisis', or 'globalisation'.

BL1101 Biology 1

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	10.00 am, Practical classes one per week 2.00 - 5.00 pm Mon, Tue, or Wed.

This module is an introduction to molecular and cellular biology. It covers cell diversity and the origins of life, cellular structures and fundamental processes. The central dogma of molecular biology is investigated through the examination of the structure and function of DNA, RNA and proteins, and how this knowledge led to modern developments in biotechnology. The final section of the module gives an introduction into molecular and population genetics with an emphasis on the process of evolution. Throughout the module the lecture material is complemented by extensive practical classes where biological laboratory techniques are taught an practiced through, for example, microscopy, DNA isolation, dissection and thin layer chromatography.

Planned timetable:	10.00 am, Practi	cal classes one per	week 2.00 - 5.00 pr	m Mon, Tue, or Wed.

This module provides an introduction to the diversity of life on Earth and will address key elements of organismal and ecological aspects of life. The module is divided into several sections beginning with the classification of life and an introduction to the kingdoms Monera, Fungi and Protista. Photosynthesis, respiration and the evolution and diversity of plants will be studied. Students will then look at the diversity of animals in the sea and the movement of some groups onto land. The module will also provide an introduction to animal behaviour and developmental biology, before finishing off by introducing ecology and the various factors promoting and threatening biodiversity. Throughout the module the lecture material is complemented by extensive practical classes introducing a variety of fieldwork and laboratory techniques.

BL2101 Cell Structure and Function SCOTCAT Credits: 30 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 1 Academic year: 2013/4

Planned timetable: 9.00 am; Practical classes one per week, 2.00 pm - 5.00 pm Thu or Fri.

This is an introductory module covering general aspects of animal cell structure and associated physiology. The module stars with a general overview of the regulation of the cell cycle, the roles of protein complexes essential to cell shape and adhesion and the homeostatic role of ion pumps, transporters and channels in the maintenance of solute compositions in both the intra- and extra-cellular fluid compartments. The module continues with detailed structure-function relationships within cells from three major tissues - i) nerve cells and the mechanisms of generation and propagation of the action potential, ii) skeletal, cardiac and smooth muscle cells and mechanisms controlling contraction and finally iii) blood cells and O2 transport, immune response, coagulation and cell signaling pathways.

Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	11.00 am; Practi	ical classes one per	week, 2.00 pm - 5.0	00 pm Mon or Tue.

Zoology is the study of animals, ranging from the simplest types of multicellular organisms such as sponges and jellyfish, through to humankind itself. The module surveys the animal kingdom, describing the key groups and the defining characteristics of their body plans and lifestyles, while putting this in an evolutionary context to reveal the patterns and trends in the kingdom as a whole. Special topics that are of fundamental importance to animals, such as animal communication, and the mechanisms of locomotion on land and in the sea and air, are considered in more detail. An extensive series of practical exercises reinforces and complements the lecture component of this module.

This module builds on BL1201 Molecular Biology. The module will further develop the understanding and application of techniques, skills and concepts, which are integral to the revolution that has occurred in the biological sciences in recent years. The module is essential underpinning for all branches of modern biology and biochemistry. The lectures include coursework on biological molecular architecture, cellular architecture, enzymes & metabolism, genomics and conclude with an introduction to the molecular basis of infection and immunity. The laboratory element will develop practical skills and the use of bioinformatics resources.

Ecology and Evolution are central to our understanding of life on Earth and the relationships between all organisms and their biotic and abiotic environment. The principles of Ecology and Evolution have determined the variety and distribution of all organisms and will determine their future responses to global change. This module will introduce students to principles and patterns of Ecology, ranging from the global (for example, patterns of energy flow through ecosystems and the biogeography of organisms and communities) to the individual (competition between and within species) and the history and processes of Evolutionary Biology (Darwin, natural selection, population genetics, the evolution of sex and speciation).

This module covers the principles of physiological adaptation in a range of animals, including examples from all major taxa and from all habitats. Initial comparisons relating to scaling and design of animals will be followed by more specific units on: (A) Comparative principles of ionic and osmotic exchanges; water balance in aquatic and land animals, adaptations at skin, kidney, and respiratory surfaces. (B) Respiratory systems in water and on land, and associated circulatory mechanisms. (C) Principles of temperature balance; ectotherms and endotherms. (D) Feeding and digestive systems; food collection, ingestion, and absorption at different trophic levels; and waste disposal. (E) Sensory systems in different environments (especially visual, olfactory, auditory, and special senses). (F) Control systems using hormones and pheromones and (G) the immune system in a range of animals.

Ancient History (AN) Modules

AN1001 Greek History to Alexander the Great SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 7 Semester: 1 Academic year: 2013/4

Planned timetable: 11.00 am

This module provides a broad survey of ancient Greek History from the Archaic period (c. 800 BC) to the reign of Alexander the Great, and looks at the political development of Athens and Sparta, the impact of the Athenian Empire, and Greek culture in its heyday. Alexander's conquest of the east and his fascinating personality are studied in detail. All sources are read in translation. The module will give a solid background in Greek History, and will touch on wider issues of the nature of democracy and political power, Mediterranean anthropology, and the image of the Greeks that has been invented by modern scholars.

AN1002 Roman History from Foundation to Empire

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	11.00 am

This module will consider the rise of Rome to world power from humble beginnings, examining the political, cultural and economic consequences of her imperialism. The module will consider in detail the social conditions which allowed Rome to sustain her enormous military burden, and the way that a multitude of factors came together to attack and finally destroy the Republican government of Rome. The module will conclude with an account of the first Roman emperor, Augustus. All sources will be in translation, and the module will give a solid background in Roman history of the Republic as well as touching on wider issues of legal and constitutional theory and cultural interaction.

CL1004 Myth and Community in Ancient Greek Literature and Culture
	SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1

Academic year: 2013/4
Planned timetable: 12.00 noon

This module explores some of the most dynamic literary and artistic achievements of archaic and classical Greek culture. Using a twin focus on myth and on ideas of community, the module ranges across Homeric epic, Athenian tragedy, Aristophanic comedy, and the writings of intellectuals; it studies the relationship between texts and images in the expression of cultural values; and it examines a series of major themes in Greek views of identity, morality, politics and religion. The module is meant both for student who intend to take Honours Classical Studies and for those who want a fascinating introduction to the poetry and art of the ancient Greek world. It is intended to be complemented by CL1005.

CL1005 Images of Augustan Rome

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	12.00 noon

This module studies a range of literary works that were written during the lifetime of the first emperor, Augustus, and that react in different ways to the new regime that he established. A central theme of the module is the development of the architecture and public art of the city of Rome during this period, and the different ways in which the city features in the literature of the time. The module is complementary to CL1004, and is meant both for students who intend to take Honours Classical Studies or Ancient History and for those who want a general survey of these aspects of Greco-Roman legacy.

CL2003 Early Greek Poetry and Philosophy

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	9.00 am

Early Greece is the age of beautiful poetry and cutting-edge philosophy. The module explores the diversity of early Greek thought at the crossroads of poetry and philosophy, starting with Hesiod's struggle to reorder the world of gods and humans. We then consider the exciting literary and intellectual experiments of the successors of Hesiod and Homer, who saw poetry as a way of writing philosophy, exploring love and attacking enemies. Authors to be studied include Sappho, Theognis, Solon, Xenophanes and Empedocles. All texts will be studied in translation.

Latin (LT) Modules

LT1001 Elementary Latin 1

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm

This module provides a systematic introduction to the Latin language, concentrating on morphology, vocabulary, and basic syntax, and will enable students to read simplified Latin texts and translate sentences from Latin into English and vice versa. It is complemented by LT1002, and will thus give access to Latin at higher levels, but it may also be taken by students whose main interests lie in other areas, such as histories, foreign languages and English. It is also suitable for students who have taken some Latin previously, but not to Higher or A Level, or who have taken Higher or A Level Latin on reduced time.

Programme module type:	Optional for all Classical Studies, Classics, Latin Degrees
Anti-requisite(s):	LT1003	Required for:	LT1002

LT1002 Elementary Latin 2

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm

This module builds on the work done in LT1001, and its function is to develop knowledge of Latin morphology, syntax and vocabulary and to enable students to read Latin texts. Together with LT1001 it may form a basis for Latin at higher levels, but it will also be useful to students of the histories, foreign languages, English and other subjects. There will be lectures on selected poems of Catullus at the end of the module.

LT1003 World of Latin 1

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm

The aims of this module, like LT1004, are to enhance understanding of Latin grammar and syntax, to increase vocabulary, to give a basic understanding of style, and to develop skills in translating and interpreting literary texts. A selection of classical Latin texts are studied, and student are encouraged and assisted to practice reading independently and in extenso. There will be tutorials to support this work and to help with the translation and appreciation of these and other Latin prose and verse authors.

LT1004 World of Latin 2

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm

This module aims to build on the skills acquired in LT1003, and to introduce students to a wider range of Latin literature. Texts studied may include early or mediaeval Latin, as well as classical literature.

LT2001 Latin Language and Literature 1

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	2.00 pm

The aim of this module is to foster the student's acquaintance with classical Latin and to explore both prose and verse authors. The authors chosen may vary from year to year. Particular attention is paid to the development of their ideas, literary styles, and genres. There will be lectures on the authors set, seminars to discuss broader themes within the module, and tutorials to monitor and assist progress in study of the language and interpretation of the literature.

	Planned timetable:	To be arranged.

This module aims to answer the question "What is it essential for every professional to know about IT?". It takes an interdisciplinary approach, delivered primarily by the School of Computer Science, with input from the School of Management. The module examines the purpose of IT in the modern enterprise, the main services that must be provided, strategies for providing these services, the potential problems that may arise, and approaches for addressing them. Particular topics may include: data storage, management, processing and presentation; process modelling; business intelligence and data mining; network and power management; security issues; reliability, availability and efficiency of IT infrastructure; new IT provisioning models and their impact on enterprise agility; dealing with IT services spanning multiple jurisdictions; relevant legislation such as data protection and freedom of information; managing outsourcing and offshoring; use of social networks within organisations; IT project management; professional, legal and ethical issues related to IT.

DI1001 Theology: Issues and History
	SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1

Academic year: 2013/4
Planned timetable: 10.00 am

This module will address a variety of themes within Christian theology. Each theme will be approached with a view to its biblical roots and historical development, its critical reception and restatement in the modern period, and its significance for contemporary theological reflection. Themes covered will include: The problem of 'God' in the modern world; who is Jesus Christ and what difference does it make?; Trinity, Spirit and community; Diagnosis and cure - models for salvation; Beginnings and endings - the origin and destiny of the world. Through consideration of these themes students will also be introduced to several key figures in the history of theology.

DI1006 New Testament 1: Jesus and the Gospels

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	12.00 noon

This module aims to introduce students to New Testament studies in general and to Gospel studies in particular. The general introduction will include consideration of the historical contexts of the New Testament texts, including political, socio-economic and religious factors within the Greco-Roman world and Early Judaism. The Gospels will then be studied with a view to determining the particular interests of their authors, and with a view to assessing their portraits of Jesus in relation to the historical Jesus. Continuous assessment includes the review of a popular 'historical fiction' novel assigned by the module co-ordinator.

Planned timetable:	10.00 am

Practical theology is a rich and diverse discipline that explores how Christian faith is lived in contemporary settings and what people's experiences of practicing their faith say to the theological and biblical traditions. This module introduces students to the work of a number of British and international practical theologians and aims to provide both methodological and conceptual tools for studying the inter-action of Christian expressions of faith and society. It is designed to foster skills of information gathering, critical analysis and reflection and the coherent expression of research and opinion.

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	2.00 pm

This module will explore key themes in the organisation, practice and beliefs of the early and mediaeval church, focusing mostly on the period from the first to the ninth centuries. Among the topics covered in the first part of the module will be the early church's encounter with the Roman empire, martyrdom, debates over truth, orthodoxy and heresy, the impact of Constantine's conversion and the relationship between paganism and Christianity. The later part of the module covers the coming of Christianity to the British Isles, and especially Scotland, and themes such as the cult of saints, monasticism, pastoral care, worship and pilgrimage. Weekly seminars will involve engagement with key primary texts from the period.

This module provides a foundation into the study of Earth and environmental sciences. The key elements of the planet will be introduced. The bulk structure of the solid Earth (and the other planets of our solar system), and the dynamic hydrosphere and atmosphere will be covered from planetary to atomistic scales. Practical and transferable skills will be developed in tutorials and laboratory exercises which include the identification of minerals and rocks both in hand specimen and using microscopes. Fieldwork will be introduced as two half-day excursions. University-level study skills associated with this module include working in groups, oral and written presentations, advanced use of the University's internet and library facilities for data acquisition, and critically assessing scientific data and reports.

This module builds on the understanding of planet Earth gained in ES1001, with an underlying theme of the Earth's resources and environment. The processes in action at different tectonic settings (volcanism, metamorphism etc) and the natural hazards induced by these processes leads into Earth resources (metals, hydrocarbons, energy and more) and the applied nature of Earth Sciences in problem-solving resource and environmental issues. Key skills for Earth and environment scientists are developed and the module includes a 4-day residential field excursion to the northeast of Scotland around Easter.

This module reflects an up-to-date approach to understanding of the behaviour of the solid Earth and its interaction with the atmosphere and biosphere and beyond. It will provide detailed training in some of the processes acting at or near the Earth's surface (for example the dynamics of erosional processes). The evolution of the planet as a whole (including the evolution of life) from magma oceans in the early Earth to the present day will be covered in detail. Practical and theoretical training in geophysical methods for probing the near surface of the Earth will be provided.

This module focuses on the geology and geochemistry of the solid Earth and high temperature processes in the Earth's interior. The mineral building blocks of the Earth will be covered in detail, as well as volcanic and metamorphic processes and geodynamics. A key component of this course is the residential field course to central Spain around the time of the Easter vacation, where independent field mapping will be introduced. Undergraduates on the BSc Geology degree must take ES2002, and are strongly encouraged also to take ES2003.

ES2003 Dynamic Earth: Earth Surface Processes SCOTCAT Credits: 30 2 SCQF Level 8 Semester: Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 10.00 am, practical 2.00 pm - 5.00 pm Tue. This module focuses on the low temperature processes that occur in the outer envelopes of the Earth, including land-atmosphere interactions, glacial processes, tectonic geomorphology, geomicrobiology and oceanography. Relationships between physical, chemical and biological processes occurring along Earth's surface, and their impact on climate, will be explored using case studies. Geography (GG) U

GG1001 Geography: Understanding our Changing World SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 7 Semester: 1 Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 11.00 am

As the global population speeds past 7 billion, mounting evidence about resource depletion and climate change, and global economic inequality and social injustice, suggests that we are now living in the "Anthropocene" – an era in which human activity has, for the first time, become the dominant driver of environmental processes, and is causing unprecedented global change. The module shows how Geography, a discipline that draws on traditions across the social and natural sciences and the humanities, is uniquely placed to understand our changing world. Its combination of lectures, tutorials, laboratory sessions in spatial data analysis is relevant to students across the University.

Programme module type:	Either GG1001 or GG1002 is compulsory for all Single Honours, Joint Honours and 'with' Degrees in Geography

GG1002 A World in Crisis?

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	11.00 am

Contemporary global problems such as pollution, biodiversity loss and population growth are critical issues for the planet's future and demonstrate the interdependence of social and environmental systems. This module unpacks the complexity of these challenges by analyzing different manifestations of 'a world in crisis' as questions of geography – shaped by geographic processes operating at a range of scales (from the global to the local). The module thus explores how Geography works as a 'world discipline' that is equipped to examine global problems from a range of human, environmental and physical geography perspectives. Teaching comprises a mix of lecture learning and project work on selected global problems.

GG2011 Geographical Processes and Change

SCOTCAT Credits:	30	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	9.00 am Mon - Fri, 2.00 pm - 6.00 pm Mon.

This module examines some fundamental processes in human and physical geography. The physical geography component of the module considers the operation of a range of atmospheric, hydrological and geomorphological processes. Topics include hydrometeorological processes, weathering, slope processes, fluvial processes, glacial processes and periglacial processes. The human geography component of the module explores the extraordinary character of the modern world from a range of geographical perspectives. Topics include the economic, historical, political and social geography of capitalism, imperialism, urbanisation and globalisation.

SCOTCAT Credits:	30	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	9.00 am Mon - Fri, 2.00 pm - 6.00 pm Mon.

The first part of the module extends the understanding of the physical and human world developed in G22011 and explores the contemporary relevance of geography, using case studies of environmental problems and social inequalities in the developed world. The second part of the module then takes a holistic view of geography by examining some enduring themes which have fascinated geographers for centuries, before illustrating the potential for an integrated understanding of the world through a detailed case study of one world region (e.g. the Himalayas).

Students will be introduced to influential thinkers, theories and texts across four main themes: the nature of reality; matter and the cosmos and their representations in the Arts; the idea of human rights and justice; and the principle of evolution as applied within and beyond the biological sciences. Students will encounter thinkers from Plato to Einstein, via Newton, Kant, Wollstonecraft and Darwin. They will develop an appreciation of the wider importance of figures such as these to a range of human intellectual endeavour across disciplinary boundaries. Use is made of original source material where possible, and lectures are supplemented by facilitated discussion sessions. This module complements Great Ideas 1, but may be studied independently.

The Middle Ages began with the fifth-century crisis of the Roman Empire. This module examines how political, cultural and social life changed in the Byzantine, British and 'barbarian' worlds in response to major upheavals. The first half focuses on the period up to the ninth century, exploring how the West dealt with the collapse and rebuilding of empire, and how the Eastern Empire responded to the Islamic caliphate. In the second half, the module studies how the emerging certainties of the eighth century fell away and new challenges were posed by new invaders, new ideas, and changes in the structures of society. In contrast the East witnessed a gradual Byzantine revival and re-emergence as a major power.

From the aftermath of the Norman Conquest of England to the close of the Fifteenth Century, the history of the island of Britain centred on the development of two monarchies: the English crown and its dominions and the kingdom of Scotland. This module has at its core the relationship between the two realms and comparisons of the different but related societies they contained. The English and Scottish realms are examined as specific examples of northern European kingdoms in the high and later Middle Ages. Attention is paid to their internal development and to issues of national identity but weight is also given to the full range of contacts between the princes and peoples of Britain and the wider world, in particular via the Church and through extensive ties with France and the Low Countries.

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm Mon, Tue and Thu.

This module surveys European history from the eleventh to the fourteenth centuries, a period known as the "High Middle Ages". Rather than providing an exhaustive chronology of political events, the course examines key themes that helped to shape Western Europe in this period. This will enable students to understand not just the major events that occurred in the period (including, for example, the contest between the Western Emperors and the Popes, or the Crusades), but also the mentalities and lives of the people who experienced them. Topics such as belief, dissent and private life are considered alongside more traditional areas like the development of national governments and trade. The module, while self-contained and coherent, will follow neatly on from ME1003, a module dealing with the transformation of Europe in the early Middle Ages.

MH2002 Introduction to Middle Eastern History SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 2 Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 2.00 pm

This module provides an introduction to Middle Eastern History from the dramatic reconfiguration of the Middle East in late Antiquity to its contested and contentious recent past. It explores political, social and cultural life across the Middle East through the comparative treatment of several themes. These will normally include states and authority; social dislocation and transformation; belief and literary expression; identity; and cross-cultural engagement. It will also define and explore key moments of transition, including the spread of Islam, Turkic irruptions and European encounters. Collectively these have profoundly influenced the modern Middle East.

This module provides an introduction to how and why the British nation state evolved from the separate kingdoms of England, Scotland and Ireland and how and why it has survived over the last three centuries. Such a project involves an analysis of the shifting relations between the component parts of the British Isles, and their overseas imperial activities, between 1500 - 2000. The core of the module is political history, broadly defined, and to facilitate more in-depth analysis of the range of factors impacting on political developments, the period is divided into four thematically coherent eras: the Reformations and the Making of Britain 1500 -1660; Britain and the Atlantic World 1660 - 1815; Industrial Britain and the Rise of Empire 1750 - 1918; the Decline and Fall of Empire: Britain in the Twentieth Century.

Theory is central to the discipline of International Relations. It is theory that distinguishes the field from the study of history, current affairs or journalism and makes the subject area more than simple descriptive thought. This module examines the main current theories in IR and provides an overview of their main theoretical approaches to the study of IR, from Liberalism and Realism; through Constructivism and the English School, to radical Marxist and Neo-Marxist perspectives as well as Feminism, Post-Colonialism and Postmodernism. The main purpose of this module is to facilitate a comprehensive understanding of how major scholars, past and contemporary, have theorised about the dynamics of international relations. The theories generally make a number of propositions which sometimes offer conflicting perspectives, but also occasionally overlap. Our main task will be to outline, critique, compare and contrast the assumptions and values which underlie each of these theories so students may enhance their own critical understanding of IR as well as form their own perspectives.

Planned timetable:	4.00 pm Tue, Thu.

Building on IR2005's discussion of theoretical approaches to International Relations, this module will explore how these relate to some of the issues that confront those engaged in the world of international politics. The introduction to the module will reiterate why theory matters and each week the lecturers will approach the individual issues through one of two theoretical lenses, though there will be no single model applied to all cases. These will include: terrorism and asymmetric warfare, non-proliferation and weapons of mass destruction, 'new wars', humanitarian intervention and its limits, human rights, religion, aid and development, environmental change, regionalism.

Management (MN) Modules

MN1001 Organisations and Society

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	4.00 pm

This module introduces students to three aspects of Management. Firstly, Understanding the Business Environment analyses changes in key environmental forces, the impact of such changes on organisations and the implications for managers. People and Work looks at theoretical perspectives and practical problems in understanding people at work and how they are managed, and finally Theories of Organisations takes an historical view of managerial ideas and concepts.

MN1002 Organisations and Analysis

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	4.00 pm

This module examines some of the main analytical approaches and techniques required by managers. It examines how managers can acquire and analyse business data and provides an introduction to financial accounting concepts and techniques. Finally, the integration of these approaches is developed by the use of a case study.

The multidisciplinary nature of management is reflected in this module. It examines the conceptual frameworks and techniques of Marketing and Organisational Behaviour which are complementary to one another in reflecting the organisation's relation to its internal and external environment. In doing so, the module will develop an understanding of the growth of Marketing and its role in management, give consideration to how the behaviour of individuals and groups in organisations may be understood and managed and also show how managers might better appreciate the markets and market forces they are committed to dealing with.

MN2002 Management and Analysis SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 2 Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 3.00 pm

This module comprises two components and further develops the analytical skills and insights required for Management. Firstly, Economic Theories of the Firm investigates the ways in which a firm's environment, corporate objectives and organisational form may affect the organisation's behaviour and performance. Secondly, the Analysis of Financial Data component seeks to engage with accounting from a broader sociological perspective through trying to make sense of the production and impact of accounting knowledge and the effects that it can have upon organisations and society alike. It will develop an understanding of accounting that is firmly rooted within the broader context of society and will highlight the way in which accounting figures are constructed, used and the effects they can have. A number of well-known financial techniques for analysing organisations are introduced.

1.00 pm Tue and 1.00 pm Thu.

Enterprise and Creativity aims to give Second Level students across the university, the opportunity to learn how to develop a project by doing it. Enhancing their own creativity and enterprise skills, students will be working in teams to design and deliver an enterprising project. The success of the module relies on students taking a proactive role in managing their learning. The module will incorporate lectures, delivered by staff from different Schools, and tutorials where students will be expected to generate their own results, using the materials provided. This module is demanding but it will offer students a life-changing experience.

This module provides an introduction to statistical reasoning, elementary but powerful statistical methodologies, and real world applications of statistics. Case studies, such as building an optimal stock portfolio, and data vignettes are used throughout the module to motivate and demonstrate the principles. Students get hands-on experience exploring data for patterns and interesting anomalies as well as experience using modern statistical software to fit statistical models to data.

MT2005 Discrete Mathematics: Algorithms and Applications SCOTCAT Credits: 30 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 2 Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 11.00 am

In recent years mathematics of discrete (finite) structures has greatly gained importance, especially with the development and expansion of computer technology. This module covers a selection of topics from discrete mathematics. The emphasis is on methods (algorithms) for manipulating finite mathematical objects (such as graphs, codes, abstract machines, etc.), solving problems using these algorithms, as well as on 'real life' applications of these methods to problems in operational research. The module also gives a mathematical treatment of computational machines (automata and Turing machines) and safe transfer of information (coding and encryption).

Comparative Literature (CO) Modules

Planned timetable:

CO1001 The Nineteenth-Century Novel SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 7 Semester: 1 Academic year: 2013/4

1.00 pm

This module introduces students to the study of Comparative Literature through nineteenth-century novels from France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Spain, the UK and the USA. All the texts will be read in translation, though students with a reading knowledge of the target language(s) will be encouraged to read the original version(s). The aim of the module is to introduce students to a representative and canonical range of fictional works, with focus on one literary genre -- the novel -- and one over-arching theme. The theme will change depending on staff availability, but for 2013-14 and the immediate future will be 'The Novel of Adultery'. Lecturers, seminar leaders and secondary criticism will all model a variety of comparative approaches for students and promote discussion of the discipline.

CO2001 Good and Evil

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm

This module will provide students with the opportunity to develop skills acquired at Level 1 of the comparative literature core programme, whilst introducing them to a range of texts in which the theme of 'Good & Evil' will be explored. This theme will provide a broad platform to investigate issues of morality and identity, and relationships between literature, religion, and psychology.

Students will be reading texts originally written in a range of languages (Arabic, English, French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish), of various genres (e.g. novels, short stories, essays, letters, poetry), written between the thirteenth and the twenty-first century. They will be encouraged to reflect on the cultural, intellectual and philosophical paradigms influencing the evolution of notions of good and evil, and on the historical circumstances which determined them. These will in turn form the basis of the comparative analysis of the different ways in which Good and Evil are perceived and represented in the texts considered. Linguistic and stylistic features, structural and genre-related aspects, and issues raised by translation will form an integral part of the module.

translation will form an integral part of the module.

CO2002 Journeys SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 2 Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 1.00 pm

This module will provide students with the opportunity to develop skills acquired at Level 1 of the comparative literature programme, whilst introducing them to a range of texts -- both canonical and non-canonical -- offering variants on the theme of 'Journeys'. As a topos which lends itself to several layers of interpretation, 'Journeys' will provide a platform for students to explore concepts such as (inter-cultural) identity, alterities, encounters, in 'real' as well as imaginary travels or journeys. Students will be reading texts originally written in a range of languages (English, French, Spanish, German, Russian and Italian), of various genres (e.g. novel, diary, letters, essay, poetry), written between the 13th and the 21st century, and will be encouraged to reflect on the similarities and differences between the narrative treatment of journeys to specific geographic locations. As with all comparative modules, the importance of form, and the role of translation in its linguistic and cultural sense, will remain at the centre of all discussions.

German (GM) Modules

GM1001 First Level German A 1 SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 7 Semester: 1 Academic year: 2013/4

Planned timetable: 3.00 pm

The module, which lays the foundation for study of German language and literature at university level, is designed for students of German as a foreign language. Two weekly language classes and self-access computer-assisted language practice aim to develop speaking, reading and writing skills and grammatical competence, using materials which cover aspects of contemporary German society and culture. Weekly lectures and seminars will give students an introduction to German studies. They will familiarise students with techniques of understanding and analysing a variety of texts - narrative, poetic and historical - as well as linguistic patterns. Please note that this module is not designed for native or heritage speakers of German.

Programme module type:	Optional for all degrees involving German.
Pre-requisite(s):	SCE Higher or A-Level German or equivalent
Required for:	GM1002

GM1002 First Level German A 2

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm

This module builds on the foundation study of German language and literature in Module GM1001. Language classes and CALL practice will further develop speaking, reading and writing skills and grammatical competence, using materials which cover aspects of contemporary German society and culture. Lectures and seminars extend the study of modern literary texts, helping students to develop further their reading and analytical skills and placing the texts in their social and cultural historical context. Please note that this module is not designed for native or heritage speakers of German.

GM1003 First Level German B 1

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	4.00 pm

The module provides the first half of an intensive language programme for beginners and those with Standard Grade or GCSE German. Students taking the module are strongly advised to proceed to module GM1004 in the second semester. Completion of the two modules can provide a one-year foundation for those students looking for an ancillary language skill, or it can lead to entry into the Second Level German course and subsequently to an Honours degree in German. The emphasis will be primarily on the acquisition of competence in the German language, both written and spoken, and activities in class will combine the teaching of grammar with the development of communicative competence and written skills.

GM1004 First Level German B 2

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	4.00 pm

The module represents the second half of the intensive language courses for beginners and those with intermediate qualifications. Completion of this module and Module GM1003 can provide a one-year foundation for those seeking an ancillary language skill, or lead to entry into the Second Level German class and subsequently to an Honours degree in German. The module builds on the work done in Module GM1003. Students complete the second half of a one-year course in modern German and continue to develop their linguistic skills, both written and oral. There is at this stage also some study of selected German literary texts. Please note that this module is not designed for native or heritage speakers of German.

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm plus 1 oral hour to be arranged.

Following on from RU1001 and RU1002, this module represents the least intensive of the three second-level Russian tracks. The most important elements of Russian grammar given in the first year are reinforced in this course, and further points of grammar and syntax are taught. There are regular exercises of translation both from and into Russian. Spoken Russian is improved through small-group oral tuition classes with a native language instructor.

This module advances the 4 skills developed in SP1001. A language course book introduces a higher level of linguistic difficulty through a series of exercises, participative classwork, grammar instruction and CALL work. The literary texts represent twenty-first-century and earlier Spanish, and Spanish American writing, chosen for linguistic enrichment and cultural significance. The reading list is available on line as from the preceding month of May. The module aims at a level of attainment sufficient to enable the student to enter confidently the 2000-level modules.

SP1030 Introduction to Modern Latin America

	SCOTCAT Credits:	10	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
	Academic year:	2013/4
	Planned timetable:	1.00 pm Mon and Fri.

This module offers an introduction to modern Latin American history. Starting with the Wars of Independence (1804-1825), it traces the political history of Spanish America, Brazil and Haiti up to the present. Adopting a thematic approach, within a continental-based narrative, this module focuses on the early national period, the neocolonial period, the age of extremes and the age of neoliberalism. Recent trends towards democratisation within a context of globalisation will also be addressed. Whilst the module will stress the common themes between countries as far apart as Mexico and Argentina, it will nonetheless highlight specific national contexts. Key events such as the Mexican-American war, the Mexican Revolution, the Chaco War, the Cuban Revolution and Pinochet's coup of 1973 will all be studied.

Programme module type:	Available to students on any degree programme.

SP2001 Spanish Language and Critical Approaches to Texts 1

SCOTCAT Credits:	30	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	11.00 am

In language the four skills of reading, listening, speaking, writing are developed through prepared work, class activities and language practicals. Language material will reflect cultural aspects of the Spanish speaking world. The module maintains progress from SP1002; there is a learning gradient. In texts, major critical approaches are studied with reference to the four genres of poetry, prose, drama and film and applied to the critical analysis of specific examples of each from the sixteenth century to the twenty-first, drawn from Spain and Spanish America. The reading list is available on line as from the preceding month of May.

This module introduces key movements and moments in film history across the first fifty years of film. Students will first examine the major formal, technological, and industrial transformations from cinema's beginnings in the 1890s up to the conversion to sound in the late 1920s. How were films made, exhibited and understood and why did cinema evolve in the ways that it did? Throughout the module, we will examine film history in a global context, exploring international developments in Germany, Soviet Russia, Britain, Japan and Italy. Students will be encouraged to engage with primary materials and to examine critically the methods and approaches for writing and researching film. What can we learn from studying film and how does studying film history help us to better understand cinema and new media today?

This module introduces a range of political, philosophical, and cultural approaches to the cinema, centring on the key insights, the breakthrough critical ideas that have informed the study of film and its role in society. The cinema - as a new and revolutionary art form - attracted many of the most powerful thinkers of the 20th century. And with every technological advance in film - including sound, colour, and computer animation - new theories of "what is cinema" emerged, creating a rich and highly concentrated intellectual exchange in a short period of time. These writings comprise the subject of this module.

MU1005 Reading Opera: Texts, Libretti and Music from Purcell to Stravinsky

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	10.00 am - Lectures Mon and Thu, Viewing Sessions Tue and Wed.

This module examines operas based on literary works from a variety of different nations (France, England, Russia, Germany, USA, Ancient Rome) that are significant in their own right. Our work will focus on the transformations of meaning and structure that take place as text is turned into libretto, and as libretto is set to music. The module will shed light on the relationship between music and text, and on the function that music plays in drama. Composers to be examined may include some or all of the following: Purcell, Bizet, Tchaikovsky, Massenet, Verdi, Puccini, Debussy, Berg and Stravinsky. No prior knowledge of musical notation is necessary to take this module. It is intended to be of particular interest to students of English literature and European modern languages, but is open to all with an interest in the link between music and drama.

SCOTCAT Credits:	10	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm Tue and 3.00 pm Fri.

We appeal to reasons both in explaining why people behave as they do and in explaining why they ought to behave in some way. But what sort of thing is a reason? How does it relate to our desires and preferences? What does it mean to say that a particular action is rational? When should an action be considered free or voluntary? Why do we fail to act rationally, and act contrary to what we judge to be right? And what are the conditions that undermine responsibility for the way we act? This module provides a critical introduction to these and other questions about the nature of practical rationality.

AS1002 The Physical Universe
	SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
	Academic year:	2013/4
	Planned timetable:	11.00 am

This module presents a descriptive, non-mathematical account of the physical universe. It is aimed at students from across the University. It is divided into two components: concepts in astronomy, dealing with our understandings of the properties and ages of planets, stars, galaxies, and their distributions in space, cosmology and the origin of the Universe; and concepts in physics, dealing with our understandings of the nature of light and matter, the structure of atoms, fundamental particles and their links to cosmology.

Psychology (PS) Modules

PS1001 Psychology 1

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	12.00 noon

This module aims (i) to provide an introduction to the theoretical foundations, historical perspectives and modern developments of psychology; (ii) to provide an introduction to the variety of subjects which make up contemporary psychology; (iii) to provide a thorough grounding in the empirical basis of psychology. Lectures comprise the principal teaching method. In addition, a specialised methodology and practical course will introduce methods of research including experimental design, analysis and interpretation of results. The skills necessary for writing research reports will be stressed. It will be assumed that entrants have no previous knowledge of psychology.

Programme module type:	Compulsory for Neuroscience and all degrees involving Psychology
Required for:	PS2001, PS2002

This module aims (i) to provide an introduction to the theoretical foundations, historical perspectives and modern developments of psychology; (ii) to provide an introduction to the variety of subjects which make up contemporary psychology; (iii) to provide a thorough grounding in the empirical basis of psychology. The principal teaching method for PS1002 is formal lectures, with a continuation of the specialised methodology and practical course exploring methods of research. It will be assumed that students have taken PS1001 and will therefore have some experience in methodology and writing research reports.

PS2001 Psychology 1

SCOTCAT Credits:	30	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	10.00 am

This module uses PS1001 and PS1002 as the foundation for a more advanced treatment of a number of areas in psychology. In this way, and in conjunction with PS2002, it forms a sound preparation for Honours Psychology. It also provides greater depth of understanding of psychology for those who are taking the module as part of a more general course. Module PS2001 complements PS2002; together, the two modules involve advanced treatment of the following areas of psychology: the relations between brain and behaviour; cognition; perception; comparative aspects of behaviour; social and health psychology. It also contains a methodology component covering laboratory and field techniques; no methodological grounding beyond PS1002 will be assumed.

Programme module type:	Compulsory for Neuroscience and all degrees involving Psychology
Pre-requisite(s):	PS1001, PS1002
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact : 4 lectures, 1 x 3-hour laboratory per week and 3 x 1-hour course-related tutorials per semester.

Planned timetable:	10.00 am

This module uses PS1001 and PS1002 as the foundation for a more advanced treatment of a number of areas in psychology and extends the range of teaching available in PS2001 to complete the preparation for Honours Psychology. It also provides greater depth of understanding of psychology for those who are taking the module as part of a more general course. Module PS2002 involves advanced treatment of the following areas of psychology, complementing PS2001: the relations between brain and behaviour; cognition; perception; comparative aspects of behaviour; social and health psychology. It also contains a methodology component covering laboratory and field techniques; grounding in the methodological skills of PS2001 will be assumed.

Sustainable Development

Sustainable Development (SD) Modules

SD1001 Sustainable Development: Priorities and Pathways
	SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
	Academic year:	2013/4
	Planned timetable:	9.00 am Mon, Tue, Thu, Fri.

Sustainable development offers a framework to identify global priorities and to explore alternative pathways by which we may recognise environmental limits and strive for social justice, in order to leave a better world for future generations. This module takes an interdisciplinary approach to critique diverse interpretations of sustainable development and to discuss its application at local, national and global levels. The module is taught collaboratively by staff from across the University (e.g. Biology, Divinity, Geography and Geosciences, Modern History, Social Anthropology and Estates). Students will explore themes such as the history and frameworks of sustainable development; biodiversity conservation; international development and culture; and institutional sustainable development strategies. Cross-cutting themes will be identified and discussed and linkages will be developed across the module.

Programme module type:	Either SD1001 or SD1003 is compulsory for Sustainable Development
Learning and teaching	Weekly contact: 4 lectures per week	and 4 tutorials during the semester.
methods and delivery:	Scheduled learning: 148 hours Guided independent study: 52 h

Sustainable Development - 1000 & 2000 Level - 2013/14 - August 2013

SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 7 Semester: 2 Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 9.00 am Mon, Tue, Thu, Fri.

Sustainable development offers an approach to envisage alternative futures through the theoretical development of different paradigms and the practical application of such theories. This module takes an interdisciplinary approach to different perspectives of sustainable development and to discuss its application at local, national and global levels. The module is taught collaboratively by staff from across the University (e.g. Art History, Biology, Chemistry, Economics and Finance, Geography and Geosciences, International Relations, Management, Mathematics and Statistics and Medicine). It builds on some of the material from SD1001 but also can be taken as a stand-alone module. Students will explore themes such as climate change and responses; sound science, knowledge and learning for sustainable development; water and sanitation; and governance for sustainable development. Cross-cutting themes will be identified and discussed and linkages will be developed across the module.

Programme module type:	Either SD1001 or SD1003 is compulsory for Sustainable Development

SD2001 Sustainable Development: Ecological and Environmental Aspects SCOTCAT Credits: 30 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 1 Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 1.00 pm Mon, Tue, Fri (lectures), 10.00 am and 11.00 am Wed, 10 am Thu (seminars/tutorials)

This module takes students through a range of ecological and environmental issues associated with sustainable development. This interdisciplinary module is taught collaboratively by staff from the Schools of Biology, Chemistry, and Geography & Geosciences. The module explores five main themes:

Part A -ecosystem functions and services- provides a general introduction to key concepts, including: biodiversity, ecosystems, and the role of environmental cycles.

Part B -the anthropogenic effects on ecosystem functions and services- explores the human impacts on natural systems, including issues of habitat change, global warming, agriculture, commercial and industrial impacts.

Part C -technology and the environment- considers how advances in technology might play a crucial role in moving towards sustainability, and the potential impacts of technology, both positive and negative (focusing energy supply and use, and also geo-engineering).

Part D -conservation and management - covers issues including species and habitat protection, protected area design, and community participation.

Part E – environmental monitoring and assessment – considers the supporting evidence base required for sustainability. Techniques are explored through case studies at local and global levels.

The module covers a wide range of theory and knowledge, and provides you with ideas and material from various disciplines. You will be assessed by an essay, which will enhance your understanding of a particular field and the constraints to achieving sustainable development. Essay topics will be supported by tutorial sessions. The seminar series offers an opportunity for peer learning and presentation by exploring case studies of a range of relevant topics and offering time for discussion. There will be a fieldtrip to St Andrews Bay and the Eden Estuary.

Programme module type:	Compulsory for Sustainable Development
Pre-requisite(s):	SD1001 or SD1003

SD2002 Sustainable Development: Social and Economic Aspects SCOTCAT Credits: 30 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 2 Academic year: 2013/4 Planned timetable: 1.00 pm (lectures), 10.00 am and 11.00 am Wed, 10.00 am Thu (seminars/tutorials)

This interdisciplinary module explores a broad range of issues concerning social justice and development which are associated with sustainable development. It is taught collaboratively by staff from the Schools of Geography & Geosciences, Management, History, and Philosophical, Anthropological & Film Studies. There are four central themes explored in the module:

Part A: Values, philosophy and history of sustainability and development considers worldviews and assumptions behind sustainable development; the history of ecology and empire; and the rise of environmental consciousness.

Part B: Policy, decision making and governance explores the role of the state; and practical environmental planning and management, including EIAs and SEAs.

Part C: Markets and institutions focuses on the corporation and the role of business organizations in managing for sustainable development, including topics such as ethical investment and corporate reporting.

Part D: Development, cultures and social justice focuses on the role of culture in SD by presenting ethnographic case studies from across the world that discuss the impact of development projects on indigenous peoples; gender; and the (cultural) impact of mining. Examples from around the world are used to illustrate the above.

Assessments for this module include a social accounting exercise, a poster presentation and a seminar on a topic of the student's choice.

1.00 pm Mon, 1.00 pm Tue, 1.00 pm Thu.

The aim of the module is to trace some of the major intellectual and societal threads in the development of modern civilisation: the 'canon' of modern thought. The module focuses on four themes: logic, reason, and evidence; religion and culture; economics and society; and technology. The aim throughout is to develop students' historical and cultural knowledge, along with their analytical and critical skills. Use is made of original source material where possible, and lectures are supplemented by facilitated discussion sessions.

Planned timetable: 1.00 pm Mon, 1.00 pm Tue, 1.00 pm Thu.

Students will be introduced to influential thinkers, theories and texts across four main themes: the nature of reality; matter and the cosmos and their representations in the Arts; the idea of human rights and justice; and the principle of evolution as applied within and beyond the biological sciences. Students will encounter thinkers from Plato to Einstein, via Newton, Kant, Wollstonecraft and Darwin. They will develop an appreciation of the wider importance of figures such as these to a range of human intellectual endeavour across disciplinary boundaries. Use is made of original source material where possible, and lectures are supplemented by facilitated discussion sessions. This module complements Great Ideas 1, but may be studied independently

ID1005 IT in the Organisation

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.

This module aims to answer the question "What is it essential for every professional to know about IT?". It takes an interdisciplinary approach, delivered primarily by the School of Computer Science, with input from the School of Management. The module examines the purpose of IT in the modern enterprise, the main services that must be provided, strategies for providing these services, the potential problems that may arise, and approaches for addressing them. Particular topics may include: data storage, management, processing and presentation; process modelling; business intelligence and data mining; network and power management; security issues; reliability, availability and efficiency of IT infrastructure; new IT provisioning models and their impact on enterprise agility; dealing with IT services spanning multiple jurisdictions; relevant legislation such as data protection and freedom of information; managing outsourcing and offshoring; use of social networks within organisations; IT project management; professional, legal and ethical issues related to IT.

English Language Teaching (ET) Modules

ET1001 English as a Foreign Language A

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm

This module is designed to improve the communicative English skills of students whose first language is not English. It aims to develop skills such as problem-solving and expressing opinions in English. The purpose of the module is to develop students' confidence in the day-to-day use of English outside the classroom, helping students to communicate more effectively in writing and speaking in a variety of non-academic styles. Lectures on British culture will enhance the students' understanding of life in 21st Century Britain.

AH3904 From Hogarth to Sickert: British Painting and the Theatre (1740 - 1930)

SCOTCAT Credits:	30	SCQF Level 9	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Availability restrictions:	Available only to students on the Evening Degree Programme.
Planned timetable:	starting 16 September 2013, 6.30 pm - 9.30 pm

As Walter Sickert famously stated in 1934: "The influence between brush and mask has at the best periods been reciprocal". This relationship, between painting and the theatre, has a long and productive history in British Art and Theatre History. From Hogarth's David Garrick as Richard III (1745) to Sickert's merging of tradition and the modern in his Shakespearean portraits of the 1930s, we will explore this interrelationship through a series of works by artists such as Joshua Reynolds, Henry Fuseli, John Everett Millais and Lawrence Alma-Tadema, amongst others. In addition, through inspiration from theatre productions and artist's set designs for the theatre we will explore how the theatre used artists and their works as inspiration and guidance in their productions. Simultaneously, through an analysis of theatre productions and artworks, we will investigate and discuss just how these artists reveal the changing social, cultural and artistic concerns of their day.

BL3901 Current Topics in Biology

SCOTCAT Credits:	15	SCQF Level 9	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2013/4
Availability restrictions:	Available only to students on the Evening Degree Programme
Planned timetable:	Tue starting 17 September 2013, 6.30 – 8.30 pm

This module aims to introduce the student to critical reading of scientific literature. The tutorial-based style requires assigned reading, literature research, presentations and discussion of agreed topics of current interest in Biology. Knowledge of biological topics and methods and skills in literature research, interpretation, and scientific criticism, discussion and writing will be developed. Each student will focus on one theme or field of biology, for example, sustainability, ecology, causes and treatment of diseases, or other topics within the expertise of the academic staff.

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2013/4
Availability restrictions:	Available only to students on the Evening Degree Programme
Planned timetable:	Thu starting 30 January 2014, 6.30 – 9.30 pm

This module builds on the work of EN1901 (Reading English) to give extended and deeper understanding of major literary texts, in drama, verse and prose, from the sixteenth century to the mid-twentieth century. The focus of the module is on comedy and comic forms of writing. This will include an introduction to theories of comedy and study of techniques of humorous writing. Since comedy is often used to comment on and criticise society, the relationship between writers and texts and the historical and social conditions of their times will also be a theme of the module, with particular reference to gender issues. The authors to be studied will include plays, poems and novels from Shakespeare to the present day.

This module introduces the student to modern theories of the Earth's formation, how it works and how it has evolved through time. Lectures and practical sessions will cover the study of crystals, minerals, rocks and fossils. The formation of igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic rocks, and of economic mineral deposits, will be considered within the context of Plate Tectonics. The fascinating geology of Scotland will be described and the module culminates with a short field excursion to examine rocks around St Andrews.

The module consists of two streams. One is a practical stream featuring commonly used application software for word processing, spreadsheets, presentations and web authoring. Topics covered in this stream will provide a range of transferable skills for use in the effective and efficient production of documents such as essays and CV's, producing and delivering presentations, and evaluating and contributing to the World Wide Web. The other is a conceptual stream aimed at presenting an overview of the place of computers in society with perspectives relating to some of the historical, social and ethical issues that should be considered when using computers in a business, educational or home environment.

We are increasingly reliant on Internet-based services for a variety of routine tasks, for example, searching: Google; e-commerce: Amazon; e-government: Fife Council; travel: Network Rail timetable; management of educational processes: MMS. This module provides insight into the technologies and concepts that are used in the design, construction and deployment of such services. The main practical focus will be on the design and use of databases and advanced authoring, leading to an understanding of their combined use in the production of dynamic websites. This will be complemented by a conceptual stream drawn from areas within Electronic Commerce. No more than 50% of the material in this module will involve working directly with software, to ensure that the module is amenable to home study.

This third-level evening degree module develops the topics introduced in IS2901. It provides a deeper understanding of the technologies and concepts underlying the design and implementation of database-driven web applications and introduces the complementary concepts of information security and usability in the context of interactive websites. The module consists of 2 streams: practical and conceptual. The practical stream focuses on the use of a scripting language in the creation of dynamic web pages; the conceptual stream draws from selected topics in Information Security, Usability, and Database design theory. No more than 50% of the material in this module will involve working directly with software, to ensure that the module is amenable to home study.

This survey of twentieth-century history focuses on Europe, but includes relations and involvement with the USA. It is divided into three major themes: the First World War, the Second World War and The Cold War. Students will be assessed in each of these areas. Each week's class, in the form of a lecture followed by a small group tutorial, focuses on a specific topic such as the Russian Revolution, Nazi foreign policy or The Sixties. Issues which run through the module as a whole include nationalism, the changing nature of warfare, individuals in history and the role of the masses. Students will be introduced to the events of this period, to historical debate about these events and to the use of primary sources in historical analysis.

Academic year:	2013/4
Availability restrictions:	Available only to students on the Evening Degree Programme
Planned timetable:	Fortnightly classes starting Wed 25 September 2013, 6.30 – 9.30 pm

The Tudors are the most famous dynasty in English history, containing the striking personalities of Henry VIII and Elizabeth I, and ruling over the turbulence of repeated changes of religion from Catholicism to Protestantism and back again. In this module we will explore the structures of power inherent in sixteenth-century English government and the dynamics of personal monarchy. How these adapted to the novel conditions of the rule of a boy king (Edward VI) and two queens (Mary I and Elizabeth I) will involve discussion both of political practice and ideas about and cultures of rule. The English Reformations will also be analysed to show how politics and religion affected each other. The final class will consider the post-1603 image of the Tudors and their legacy in political and popular history.

Academic year:	2013/4
Availability restrictions:	Available only to students on the Evening Degree Programme
Planned timetable:	Wed starting 18 September 2013, 6.30 – 9.30 pm

This module examines the topics of music history, acoustics, aesthetics and musical theory and analysis. It aims to provide an overview of the history of western art music and a broad appreciation of different ways in which the study of music can be approached in an academic context. During the module students will develop skills in analysis which will allow them to read scores and be able to describe pieces of music in terms of form, structure, texture, timbre and instrumentation. This module has no pre-requisite but a basic knowledge of music notation and theory would be advantageous.

This module will take a theoretical approach to understanding key ideas at the heart of modern psychology. The aim here is to explore in detail several of the theoretical perspectives and approaches used in psychology to describe and explain human behaviour and mental processes. Students will explore how psychology approaches issues such as the nature of consciousness, defining and understanding 'normality' and 'abnormality' (from case studies to populations), the theory of mind, and the impact of evolution on the nature of being human. Current theories and debates will be studied from the perspective of individual staff members, and their research interests, within the School of Psychology. The focus will be on understanding concepts; the module is not intended to provide training in experimental psychology techniques or methodology.

	Availability restrictions:	Available only to	students on the Ev	ening Degree Prog	ramme
Planned timetable: Wed starting 18 September 2013, 6.30 – 9.30 pm

This module will address aspects of what it is to be human, and to be a moral agent confronted with particular moral issues in the world. We will consider how aspects of our human nature have a bearing on the nature of moral agency and moral responsibility (e.g. by exploring issues of personal identity and free will), as well as considering some pressing moral problems (such as life-and-death issues like euthanasia and abortion; and issues arising from obligations we have to others - human or nonhuman). This module will provide a useful and stimulating introduction to some of the core questions of philosophy, from metaphysics to ethics.

This module aims to develop critical understanding of the classical period of metaphysics, epistemology and moral theory. The module will be an introduction to the thought of Hobbes, Descartes, Locke, Berkeley, Hume and Kant, through the study of selected writings. Specific attention will be paid to these philosophers' views of knowledge, thought, personal identity, freedom and the basis of society and morality. Such study remains an indispensable introduction to contemporary philosophy.

PY2903 Matters of Life and Death SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 2 Academic year: 2013/4 Availability restrictions: Available only to students on the Evening Degree Programme. Planned timetable: 6.30 pm - 9.30 pm Wed.

How should we think about moral problems concerning life and death? Choices about whose life to save, and whom to allow to die, must be made all the time, in the health service and elsewhere. How should these choices be made? Some actions that aim at good ends will endanger lives. Are such actions permissible? This module, rather than focusing on specific 'moral problems' (such as euthanasia, abortion, etc), deals with general questions concerning life and death, such as: Is death bad? In virtue of what is life good? Is there a morally significant difference between killing and letting die, or between intending someone's death and merely foreseeing it? On what principles would one choose between lives, when the choice is forced?

By the end of this module, students should have gained a good critical understanding of the complexities of these questions, and the various approaches that have been taken in answering them. Students will be able to analyse and evaluate critical discussion of these issues in recent and contemporary literature; to formulate and articulate their own views on these issues, and provide a rational defence of these views in written work and in discussion.

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year: 2013/4
Availability restrictions: Available only to students on the Evening Degree Programme			ramme
Planned timetable: Wed starting 18 September 2013, 6.30 – 9.30 pm

This module aims to introduce evening degree students to the subject of Social Anthropology. It combines an examination of some of the core theoretical debates of the discipline with close reading and analysis of some classic ethnographic texts. Students will learn about anthropological modes of thinking through case studies of particular cultures and societies around the world. They will also be introduced to the anthropological method of research and to some of the historical conditions for the subject's emergence and development over time. By the end of the course students will have a keen sense of what anthropologists do, how they look at the world and what terms of analysis they utilise. They will also have a strong sense of the plurality of cultures in the world and the limits of many aspects of their own society or culture. Anthropologists stress the importance of understanding other ways of life. It is this increased understanding of a shared planet that is the invaluable gift that anthropology has to offer.

Planned timetable:	Wed starting 29 January 2014, 6.30 – 9.30 pm

This module investigates ways in which anthropological ideas and approaches can be used to understand the complexities of today's world. This module will situate anthropological works dealing with important themes in current world economic, social and political debates such as development, climate change, and the indigenous people's political movement, within wider past and present frameworks of anthropological thought. We aim to show Evening Degree students the importance of anthropology as a discipline in understanding contemporary social phenomena as well as reinforcing the anthropological understanding and tools they were introduced to in SA1901.

SC3902 Heroes or Villains? The Impact of Personality in the study of Scottish History

SCOTCAT Credits:	30	SCQF Level 9	Semester:	Whole Year
Academic year:	2013/4
Availability restrictions:	Available only to students on the Evening Degree Programme
Planned timetable:	Fortnightly classes starting Thu 19 September 2013, 6.30 – 8.30 pm

As part of the Evening Degree programme, this module will study some of the prominent figures from Scottish history who have attracted a somewhat larger than life reputation. The historiography behind these reputations will be examined, and primary sources assessed in order to determine the validity of received perceptions. The motives of those seeking to establish particular views of historical characters will be examined as will the extent to which such personality cults obscure or illuminate the period in which they lived.

What should we believe? How should we think? This module provides an introduction to informal modes of reasoning and to philosophical ideas about the differences between good and bad arguments. We will discuss induction and deduction, justification and knowledge, and will study elementary features of logic. The module is an essential foundation for further study in philosophy, and teaches critical and analytic skills central to many other disciplines.

What am I, and what is reality? Am I part of the scientific, law-governed material world? If so, can I really act freely? How could a material thing be conscious? Am I the same person I was ten years ago? What, fundamentally, are material things and their properties? Can we understand the nature of space and time? Is the human mind capable of proving that God exists? This module will enable students to understand and begin to answer such fundamental metaphysical questions, and to gain valuable skills in reasoning and abstract thought.

PY2802 Modern Philosophy: from Descartes to Kant (by Distance Learning) SCOTCAT Credits: 20 SCQF Level 8 Semester: 2 Academic year: 2013/4 Availability restrictions: (subject to sufficient student demand) Non-graduating distance-learning students only Planned timetable: No traditional classes: e-learning module

For the purposes of this module, 'modern philosophy' means philosophy written in Europe from Descartes in the mid-seventeenth century to Kant at the end of the 18th century. This was an extraordinary period in the history of western thought, when a variety of brilliant thinkers devoted themselves to working out the philosophical implications of the 'new science'. This generated questions about the extent of human knowledge, about what can be known with certainty, about perception, and about how we acquire knowledge through the senses. There was also renewed interest in morality, its foundation, and its relation to human nature. This module will critically examine the arguments of major philosophers of the modern period, including Descartes, Locke, Berkeley, Hume and Kant.

Sustainable Aquaculture

BL1801 The Global Aquaculture Industry
	SCOTCAT Credits:	5	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1 & 2 (taught twice)
	Academic year:	2013/4
	Planned timetable:	To be arranged.		_

The module will introduce the concept and definition of aquaculture and describe the global industry in the main production regions. The module will also consider the concept of sustainability; outlining the major environmental, social and economic factors involved. Major species produced will be defined and grouped in terms of bony fishes (teleosts), shrimp, shellfish, algae and other species. The main issues and challenges relating to the development of sustainability in aquaculture will be introduced and discussed.

BL2802 Fish and Invertebrate Biology

SCOTCAT Credits:	5	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1 & 2 (taught twice)
Academic year:	2013/4
Planned timetable:	To be arranged.

This module will address the essential aspects of fish and invertebrate biology including anatomy, physiology and environmental requirements. Subjects studied will include anatomy and physiology of the circulatory, respiratory, nervous, digestive sensory endocrine reproductive systems and life cycle of invertebrate and vertebrate aquaculture species. These parameters will be examined in the context of biological requirements and sustainable aquaculture; production methods and technology, effect of water quality, disease, nutrition and environmental impact.
