Comparative Literature (CO) modules

CO1001 The Nineteenth-Century Novel
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm
This module introduces students to the study of Comparative Literature through nineteenth-century novels from France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Spain, the UK and the USA. All the texts will be read in English translation. The aim of the module is to introduce students to a representative and canonical range of fictional works, with focus on one literary genre - the novel - and one over-arching theme. The theme will change depending on staff availability, but for the immediate future will be 'The Novel of Adultery'. Lecturers, seminar leaders and secondary criticism will all model a variety of comparative approaches for students and promote discussion of the discipline.
Programme module type:	CO1001 or CO1002 is compulsory for Comparative Literature. Either CO1001 or EN1003 is a compulsory module for English.
Required for:	CO2001
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 3 lectures, 1 seminar, 1 surgery hour.
	Scheduled learning: 55 hours		Guided independent study: 145 hours
Assessment pattern:	As defined by QAA: Written Examinations = 50%, Practical Examinations = 0%, Coursework = 50%

CO1002 Drama in the Twentieth and Twenty-first Centuries
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm
This module introduces students to the study of Comparative Literature through plays written in the twentieth and twenty-first century from France, Germany, Iran, Italy, Russia, Spain, the UK and the USA. All the texts will be read in English translation. The aim of the module is to introduce students to a representative and canonical range of fictional works, with focus on one literary genre -- drama -- and one over-arching theme. The theme will change depending on staff availability, but for the immediate future will be 'Staging the Political'. Lecturers, seminar leaders and secondary criticism will all model a variety of comparative approaches for students and promote discussion of the discipline and potential directions for further study at sub-honours and honours degree level.
Programme module type:	CO1001 or CO1002 is compulsory for Comparative Literature. Either CO1002 or EN1004 is a compulsory module for English.
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 3 lectures, 1 seminar, 1 surgery hour.
	Scheduled learning: 55 hours		Guided independent study: 145 hours

CO2001 Good and Evil
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester: 1
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm
This module will provide students with the opportunity to develop skills acquired at Level 1 of the comparative literature core programme, whilst introducing them to a range of texts in which the theme of 'Good & Evil' will be explored. This theme will provide a broad platform to investigate issues of morality and identity, and relationships between literature, religion, and psychology. Students will be reading texts originally written in a range of languages (Arabic, English, French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish), of various genres (e.g. novels, short stories, essays, letters, film), produced between the thirteenth and the twenty-first century. They will be encouraged to reflect on the cultural, intellectual and philosophical paradigms influencing the evolution of notions of good and evil, and on the historical circumstances which determined them. These will in turn form the basis of the comparative analysis of the different ways in which Good and Evil are perceived and represented in the texts considered. Linguistic and stylistic features, structural and genre-related aspects, and issues raised by translation will form an integral part of the module.
Programme module type:	Compulsory for Comparative Literature

CO2002 Journeys
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester: 2
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm
This module will provide students with the opportunity to develop skills acquired at Level 1 of the comparative literature programme, whilst introducing them to a range of texts - both canonical and non-canonical - offering variants on the theme of 'Journeys'. As a topos which lends itself to several layers of interpretation, 'Journeys' will provide a platform for students to explore concepts such as (inter-cultural) identity, alterities, encounters, in 'real' as well as imaginary travels or journeys. Students will be reading texts originally written in a range of languages (Arabic, English, French, German, Italian, Persian, Russian and Spanish), of various genres (e.g. novels, diaries, letters, essays, poetry), written between the thirteenth and the twenty-first century, and will be encouraged to reflect on the similarities and differences between the narrative treatment of journeys to specific geographic locations. As with all comparative modules, the importance of form, and the role of translation in its linguistic and cultural sense, will remain at the centre of all discussions.

German (GM) modules

GM1001 First Level German A 1
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm
The module, which lays the foundation for study of German language and literature at university level, is designed for students of German as a foreign language. Two weekly language classes and self-access computer-assisted language practice aim to develop speaking, reading and writing skills and grammatical competence, using materials which cover aspects of contemporary German society and culture. Weekly lectures and seminars will give students an introduction to German studies. They will familiarise students with techniques of understanding and analysing a variety of texts - narrative, poetic and historical - as well as linguistic patterns. Please note that this module is not designed for native or heritage speakers of German.
Programme module type:	Optional for all degrees involving German.
Pre-requisite(s):	SCE Higher or A-Level German or equivalent
Required for:	GM1002
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 1 lecture, 1 seminar, 2 language classes, CALL classroom work and 1 surgery hour.
	Scheduled learning: 55 hours		Guided independent study: 145 hours

SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Planned timetable:	3.00 pm
This module builds on the foundation study of German language and literature in Module GM1001. Language classes and CALL practice will further develop speaking, reading and writing skills and grammatical competence, using materials which cover aspects of contemporary German society and culture. Lectures and seminars extend the study of modern literary texts, helping students to develop further their reading and analytical skills and placing the texts in their social and cultural historical context. Please note that this module is not designed for native or heritage speakers of German.
Programme module type:	Optional for all degrees involving German

GM1003 First Level German B 1
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Planned timetable:	4.00 pm
The module provides the first half of an intensive language programme for beginners and those with Standard Grade or GCSE German. Students taking the module are strongly advised to proceed to module GM1004 in the second semester. Completion of the two modules can provide a one-year foundation for those students looking for an ancillary language skill, or it can lead to entry into the Second Level German course and subsequently to an Honours degree in German. The emphasis will be primarily on the acquisition of competence in the German language, both written and spoken, and activities in class will combine the teaching of grammar with the development of communicative competence and written skills.

Spanish (SP) modules

SP1001 Spanish Language and Texts 1
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Availability restrictions:	Available only to First Year students.
Planned timetable:	12.00 noon
The language part of the module promotes the four skills of reading, writing, listening and speaking. There is formal grammar instruction and a programme of participative classroom activities, grammar instruction and self-access material. The texts component is designed to provide language in context and to widen the students experience of Spanish and Spanish American life and culture through selected writing and film.
Programme module type:	Either (SP1001 and SP1002) or (SP1003 and SP1004) are compulsory for Spanish
Pre-requisite(s):	Higher/A-Level Spanish or equivalent.	Anti-requisite(s):	SP1003
Required for:	SP1002
Learning and teaching methods and delivery:	Weekly contact: 2 language classes, 1 grammar lecture (or additional language class) and 1 surgery hour (x 11 weeks), 1 lecture (x 10 weeks), 1 seminar (x 8 weeks).

SP1030 Introduction to Modern Latin America
SCOTCAT Credits:	10	SCQF Level 7	Semester:	2
Academic year:	2015/6
Planned timetable:	1.00 pm Mon and Fri
This module offers an introduction to modern Latin American history. Starting with the Wars of Independence (1804-1825), it traces the political history of Spanish America, Brazil and Haiti up to the present. Adopting a thematic approach, within a continental-based narrative, this module focuses on the early national period, the neocolonial period, the age of extremes and the age of neoliberalism. Recent trends towards democratisation within a context of globalisation will also be addressed. Whilst the module will stress the common themes between countries as far apart as Mexico and Argentina, it will nonetheless highlight specific national contexts. Key events such as the Mexican-American war, the Mexican Revolution, the Chaco War, the Cuban Revolution and Pinochet's coup of 1973 will all be studied.
Programme module type:	Available to students on any degree programme.

SP2005 Spanish Language and Texts: ex-Beginners
SCOTCAT Credits:	20	SCQF Level 8	Semester:	1
Academic year:	2015/6 & 2016/7
Planned timetable:	11.00 am
The module is designed for ex-Beginners in Spanish who wish to move into mainstream studies of language and literature. The title of the language programme, Revise and Consolidate, explains its goal: revision and progressively deeper understanding of the language, intensive practice in oral, spoken and written skills. In Texts, study is planned so that thorough vocabulary acquisition, analysis of syntax and understanding of extended texts can be realistically achieved. This module not only opens the way to Spanish Honours for ex-Beginners but could be useful for students who wish to study other subjects in Spain at a later date.
